THE POLYSCOPE 1930

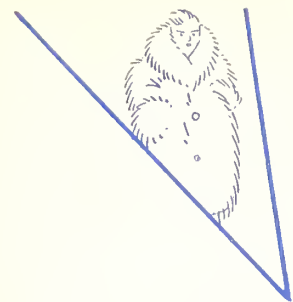

FOR E W O R D

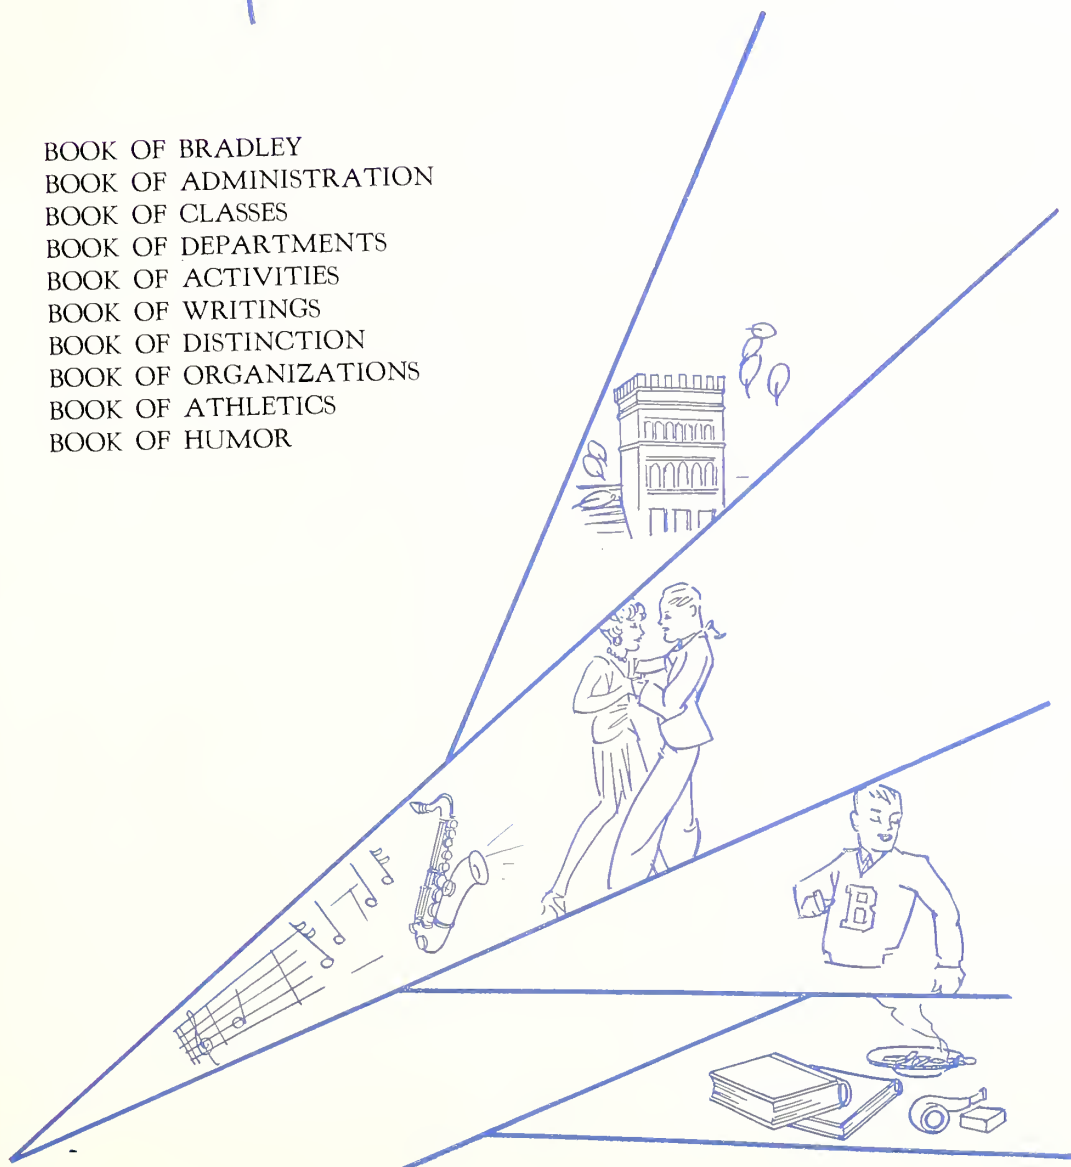

OUR efforts during the year have culminated in this, another yearbook. A bit of the atmosphere of college life, a summary of the college activities, and an insight into the realm of higher education as given at Bradley, are portrayed here. We have strived to offer to you our best work, hoping that in later years, as well as the present time, it will give you pleasure to review your college days.

DEDICATION

TO KNOWLEDGE, a power sought after by the masses, a desirous quality attained only by masters of their art after untiring efforts, an abstract term which embodies the full import of education, and a thing which gives itself completely to no one, yet is continually strived for by all of us, we dedicate this book.

BOOK OF BRADLEY

B. White

A GLIMPSE of Bradley, its scenic campus, and its buildings interwoven with traditions and fond memories, are presented here. It is the realization of the dream of a woman, Lydia Moss Bradley, the founder of this college.

ALMA MATER

Oh, Alma Mater! Here in adoration
Come thy sons and daughters, from near and far.
And lowly kneeling, we bring our unsought tribute
To thee, our guiding star, our guiding star.

Shoulder to shoulder, here in days departed
Comrades, we fought our fields, fought, lost and won,
And now returning, let us chant the paean
To thee, our ruling sun, our ruling sun.

WITH a thorough knowledge of higher education, its needs and demands, and by careful management, the administration of Bradley Polytechnic Institute has made this college enlarge and prosper, as we see it today.

FREDERIC R. HAMILTON

President of Bradley Polytechnic Institute

THE Polyscope is not merely "an annual." It is an excellent example of cooperation. We don't realize what's going on throughout the year. We see only the results. It's like the band; most of us forget the regular practice, and see that organization only in uniform as it marches on the field. It's like the basketball team; we overlook the careful training and see only the achievement as the ball slips through the basket to defeat our natural rivals. It's like the girls' exhibition in physical education; we see the fancy costumes, unusual dances or acrobatic feats, and forget the weeks of preparation. And now as we approach another convocation, we see again the results of cooperation, devotion, and endless labor—an attractive, highly creditable volume portraying college life at Bradley. That's the Polyscope.

Frederic R. Hamilton

Dean of the College

Thirty And Two Years

DURING the past thirty-two years great changes have taken place in the educational world. These are very apparent at Bradley, especially since 1920. At first, there was a lower and higher academy of two years each, corresponding to the regular high school course but including training in wood and metal working and drawing for the boys, and sewing, cooking and drawing for the girls. In 1897 the manual arts movement was in its infancy. There was only one high school in Peoria, not well equipped for training in these lines. Bradley, therefore, with its academy and two years of college, was a pioneer in the junior college movement, and in combining training in the liberal arts with similar training in the mechanic arts.

As Peoria grew, her educational facilities improved. The Manual Training High School was opened in 1910, and the new Central High in 1916, both finely equipped for work in home economics and the manual arts. The Bradley faculty had already sensed the changes which were taking place and in December, 1915, discussed plans for dropping the academy and enlarging the college work, as there was no desire to compete with the public schools. Four year courses leading to the B. S. degree were already in operation for students in the manual arts and home economics departments, and it was proposed to offer the same opportunity to students desiring the A. B. degree. Many difficulties confronted the faculty and trustees in considering plans for reorganization, but on January 20, 1919, the heads of departments voted to recommend to the trustees the dropping of the academy a year at a time, beginning with the fall of 1919. Plans for four years of college work were also formulated and approved, and with the opening of school in 1920, Bradley College became a reality. New departments were added, such as, economics and business administration, political science, sociology, library methods, and college of music. Later additions are education, speech and dramatic art, and philosophy.

This enlargement on the side of liberal arts was accompanied by a similar development in manual arts and home economics. In the early years the work in manual arts was under one head and included a limited number of courses. Now there are seven lines of work each under a departmental head, giving instruction in art, automobile, electricity, industrial education, drawing, metal working, woodworking. New courses in aviation engines and concrete mixing have been added this year, and a course in acetylene welding is being arranged.

Originally Mrs. Bradley planned for a few small shops in which such trades as carpentry and blacksmithing would be taught. Following a conference with Dr. Harper, late president of the University of Chicago, she decided to include the academic work of the high school and two years of college. She lived ten years to see and approve the working out of the plan. She was a woman of broad vision and teachable spirit. When asked her wish regarding changes, she used to say to those in authority, "I leave it all to you. You know better than I what is best." She desired to serve in every way the youth of her day and of the future.

The following facts show that this enlargement of opportunity was justified. In the first year the combined higher academy and college had only 30 students. The entire enrollment was 260. The faculty numbered 20. At present the faculty in all departments numbers about 70. The total enrollment for the current year is 1934, from 40 states and 4 foreign countries. Of these 757 are studying for the bachelor's degree. The work at Bradley satisfied a need, since in the short space of thirty-two years she has risen to first place among the colleges of Illinois, as the above figures show.

During these years some 10,000 persons have enrolled at Bradley hall for varying periods of study. Of these 729 graduated from the academy and 1370 from the two year college course. The bachelor's degree has been conferred on 520. A large number not included in the above figures, have received diplomas or certificates from the College of Music, the School of Horology, and various lines of vocational work. From an unknown quantity in the educational world, Bradley now has the highest rating given by the North Central Association and other standardizing agencies. Her graduates are widespread and occupy important positions in the educational world and in business and professional life. They are excellent recruiting agencies for their Alma Mater and, more and more, the sons and daughters of Bradley alumni are coming to take the places once occupied by their fathers and mothers.

THE Board of Trustees, founded by Mrs. Lydia Bradley, is composed of eight members, who serve permanently, and whose purpose it is to supervise the practical needs of the school, and to make possible all improvements or additions that they think wise. The members of this group are chosen for their high ideals, their interest in the youth of today, and their knowledge in furthering education. A term trustee was elected in 1928 by the Bradley alumni association to serve for a period of three years.

DEAN OF WOMEN

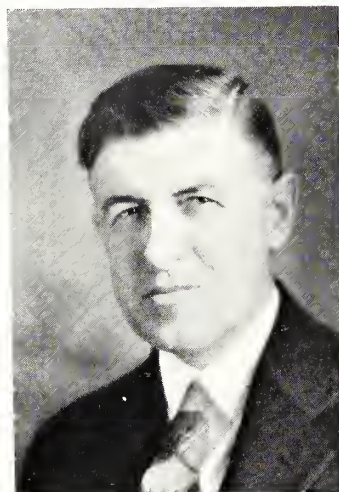

IT has been said that civilization rises no higher than its women. The real objective today of deans and advisers of women is to develop the womanly woman with strength physical and mental as well as social and moral. The Dean of Women sincerely appreciates her splendid opportunity of seeing the world through 1929 eyes and earnestly wishes to listen with sympathy and advise with wisdom.

—Mary B. Huston.

DEAN OF MEN

OUR college tries to prepare her students for life in all its fulness: that is, she teaches them how to face life's problems. As part of this program it is often our privilege to help young people out of the shadows that sometimes gather along the way. Helpfulness is our motto.

—William Booth Philip.

THE Board of Control of Undergraduate Publications is composed of six members, including representatives of the faculty, the senior class and the junior class. All student publications such as The Bradley Tech and the Polyscope, which are the two major publications, are subject to the management of this board.

The members of the Board of Control elect the editors and business managers of such publications, and pass their approval of the staffs chosen. This representative body has the power to let contracts, examine financial reports, and set subscription and advertising rates.

PARTING SONG

Bradley, as we part, we are pledged to thee
Pledged to every firelit hour of jollity
For the glad, warm breath of life that has fed us, filled us,
Till our hearts are bound to thine eternally.

Bradley, this our pledge we have sworn for aye,
Till the friends prove false and life-long hopes decay
We will live and fight and laugh for the highest, brightest
Till the breath of life within us flee away.

COLLEGE OF MUSIC

G. CALVIN RINGGENBERG, M. Mus., A. A. G. O.

Dean of College of Music

MR. RINGGENBERG'S musical education has been one of extensive study both at home and abroad. He studied at Iowa State College with Alexander S. Thompson, Genevieve Westerman, and Addie Van Tuhl Barnett of Des Moines, Iowa. He graduated as a piano soloist and an organist from New England Conservatory at Boston. He was organist and choir master of the First Congregational church in Fall River, Massachusetts for some time. Then he accepted the position of director of music at Jamestown College, North Dakota. In the summer of 1921 he attended Fontainebleau School of Music in France where he studied piano under Isadore Phillip and Camille Decreus, organ under Charles Marie Widor and Henri Lebert, and conducting under Albert Wolf. In 1925 the Chicago Musical College gave him his Master's Degree in organ and composition which were studied with Clarence Eddy and Carl Busch. He also studied piano with Jan Chiapouso and Xavier Scharwenka in Chicago. His A. A. G. O. degree was earned in 1925.

Bradley College Orchestra

THE orchestra was organized in the fall of 1926 by Mr. G. Calvin Ringgenberg, dean of the College of Music. During the year of 1927 and 1928, Mr. Ringgenberg devoted his time to the Civic Orchestra which is open to Bradley students as well as other Peoria musicians.

This year Mr. Harry K. Lamont, head of the violin department, reorganized and directed the college orchestra which proved its success on December 13, when it appeared on the program given by the Mask and Gavel Club.

THE Men's Glee Club was organized at the Bradley College of Music in 1922 for the purpose of giving an opportunity to the talented student to train his talent, and to give to the student body and the public the best music for Glee Clubs.

The club is under the direction of Mr. Lawrence E. Blackman, head of the voice department, of the College of Music at Bradley. Besides their concert in Peoria on March 5, the Men's Glee Club has given concerts in various parts of central Illinois.

Bradley Band

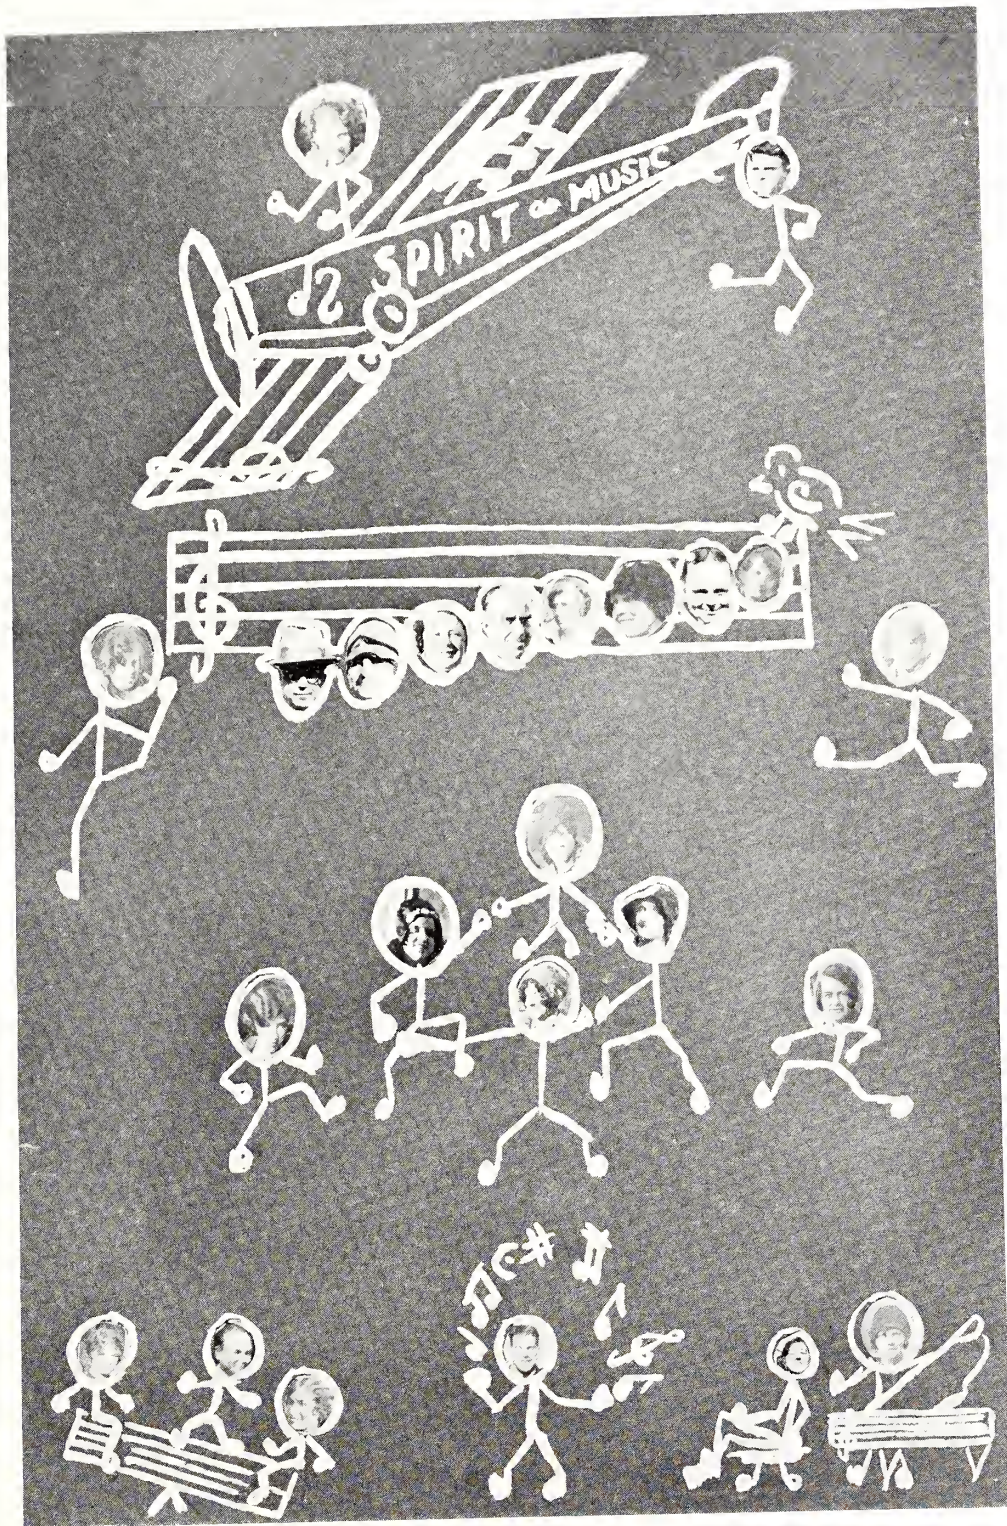

MR. E. J. SCHLEGEL

Director

RALPH RADEBAUGH

Business Manager

UNDER the leadership of Professor Edward J. Schlegel, the Bradley Band is one of the most popular musical organizations on the campus. In addition to numerous concerts at the formal campus functions, the band also appears at the major athletic contests. A most varied and unique collection of band instruments and a fine selection of band music are outstanding features of the Bradley Band.

HOROLOGY

A. T. WESTLAKE
Dean of Horology

DEAN A. T. WESTLAKE, head of the Horological department of Bradley college, has been serving in this responsible position since the year 1899. Through his influence and personal direction this department has become the center of horological training in the United States, and is one of the best equipped of its kind in the world.

HOROLOGY GROUP

Horology Faculty

FREDERICK E. BROWN, Instructor in the Finishing Department in Watchwork, Drafting, and Lecturer.

After completing his horological study at Bradley, Mr. Brown became a member of the Horology faculty in 1902, and has been an efficient instructor in that department since.

W. J. FICKEISEN, Instructor of Engraving.

Following his graduation from Bradley Horological department of Optics in 1902, Mr. Fickeisen was associated with firms doing similar work, later returning to Bradley as a member of the Horology faculty.

GEORGE J. WILD, Instructor of Elementary Watchwork Department.

Mr. Wild was active in the retail jewelry business before coming to Bradley College to assume his duties as instructor of horology. He, too, is a graduate of the school with the class of 1917.

CHARLES E. CARRIER, Instructor of Horology.

Mr. Carrier graduated in 1919 from the Bradley school of Horology, and since that time has been supervising the work of the students of horology.

THE Manual Arts Department has given Bradley nation-wide recognition in the field of Industrial Education.

Ten major divisions leading to a B. S. degree prepares a student for a variety of positions. A student may select for his work, General Manual Arts, Junior High School, Drafting, Electricity, Woodworking, Automobile, Supervision and Art. Two year courses are offered in Elementary Grades and Metal Work. A coaching curriculum may also be combined with the Manual Arts subjects.

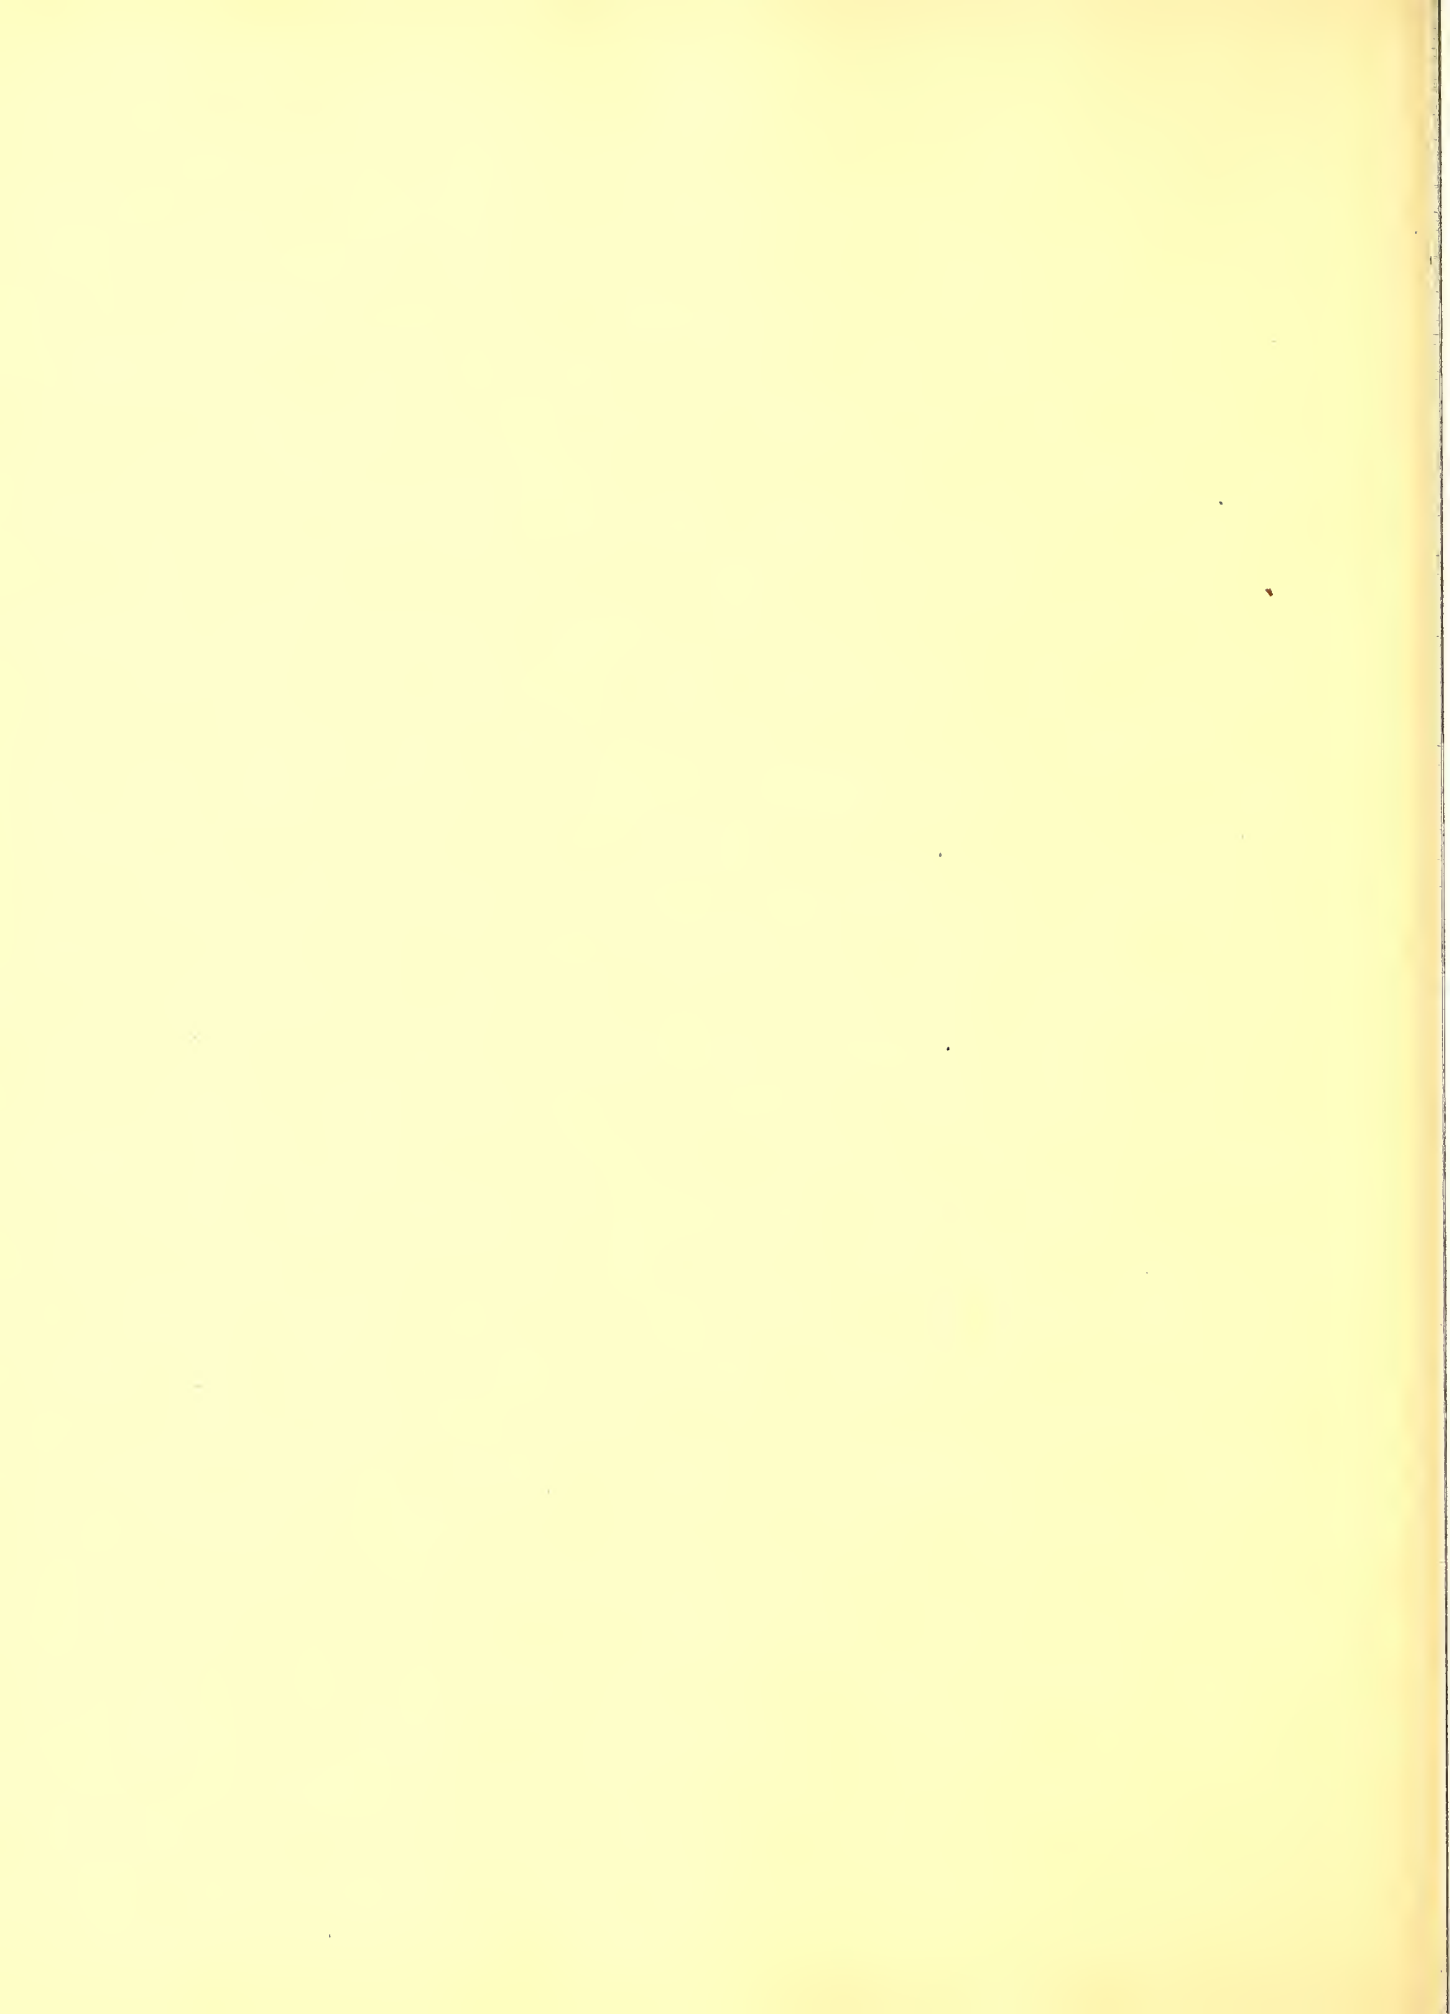

Graduates of the Industrial Education Course are in great demand throughout the country, and a well qualified teacher can demand a very good salary.

BRADLEY life for this year is now only a pleasant memory; but sometimes even the best of memories fade. Gathered together on the following few pages are scenes and faces which will help to refresh the dull memory, and, in so doing, provide an enjoyable means of living again a happy past.

The Bradley Mixer

LAST September the curtain was rung up on the first social event at Bradley for the year, namely, the annual Mixer which was held in the gym. This was only the first of many like occasions which crowded the life at Bradley this past year, and helped to make 1928-29 an enjoyable year on Bradley campus.

Homecoming
Committee

AS streams of alumni assembled on the Friday evening of Homecoming, they were greeted by a huge new electric "B" and the word "Welcome."

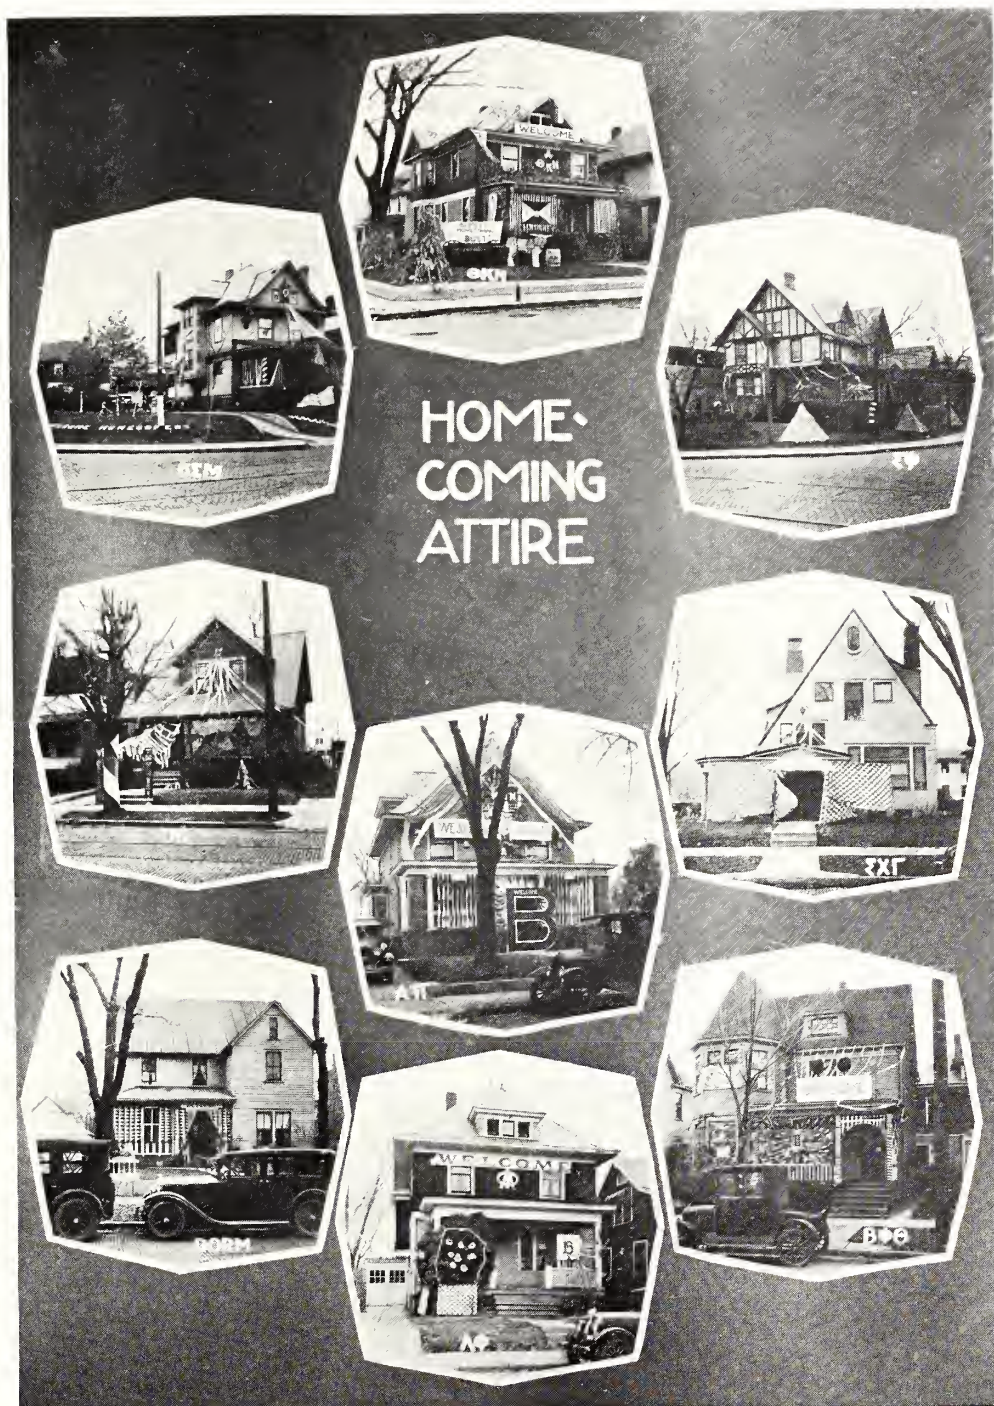

The stunt-show was a decided success, and the Sigma Phis with their peppy skit entitled "The Lambda Delta Gamma Coeds at Homecoming" received the first prize cup. Beta Sigma Mu placed second and Alpha Pi placed third. Theta Kappa Nu received the cup for having the most attractively decorated house.

On Saturday morning the Hoboes made merry on the main thoroughfare of the city. At eleven o'clock they ended their march on the campus where the freshmen were successful in subduing the sophomores in their annual class rush.

At 2:30 a fighting group of Bradley Indians dealt a crushing blow to Wesleyan in one of the closest games of the season; but all hostilities were abandoned and all groups made merry in one of the largest Homecoming dinner-dances that has ever been staged on the Bradey campus.

Arthur E. Gault was general chairman and was assisted by Howard Poppen, student chairman. The cooperating committee chairmen were: Louise McCormick, registration; Stewart Becker, class rush; Bernice Schwartz, dinner; Jean Terry, dance; Robert Flock, parades; Harold Velde, bonfire; Francis Duke, publicity; Herman Haven, stunt-show.

Senior Ball

THE Senior Ball, the outstanding social event of the senior class, proved a brilliant climax to the social activities of the class of '29. The Ball this year was held in the ball room of Hotel Pere Marquette.

David Owen, chairman of the Ball, and Geraldine Iler, the Ball Queen, led the Grand March which opened the dancing, following a brief program of after-dinner addresses. Dale Dillehunt, president of the class, acted as toastmaster. He called upon the following: Dr. Hamilton, Dr. Packard, Dr. Wyckoff, and David Owen.

The dinner was for seniors and their guests. Invitations for the dance were issued to under-classmen and alumni. Music for the dancing was furnished by Chapin's orchestra. There were also several special entertainment features.

The chaperones for this event were Dr. and Mrs. F. R. Hamilton, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Packard, Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Philip, Mrs. Mary Blossom Huston, and Dr. C. T. Wyckoff.

David Owen as general chairman was assisted by the following committee: Betty Cody, entertainment; Herman Haven, publicity; Donald Gregg, orchestra; Ruth Thompson, food; Dale Kanive, lighting and decorations; Harold Odell, programs; Edwin Nurss, finances and tickets; Elaine Williams, chaperones and honorary members; Evelyn Perkins, dinner arrangements.

Junior Promenade

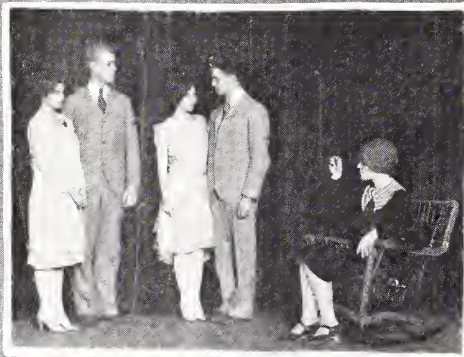

THE Bradley Junior Promenade this year opened upon a beautiful moonlight scene, laid in the spacious ballroom of Hotel Pere Marquette. The guests, upon their arrival, were greeted by William Gauss, Martha Price, Dr. and Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. Huston, Miss Meadows and her partner, Leroy Kennedy and Margaret Long.

Immediately following this reception, the grand march, led by William Gauss and Martha Price, Prom chairman and Prom Queen, wound its way among the ferns and palms to the strains of Flindt's Varsity Troubadours of Chicago, who crooned the enchanting dance music until the clock striking two reminded the guests that the curtain had fallen on another of those "Never-to-be-forgotten" affairs. Programs in red leather, fashioned with a silver futuristic design, were presented to each guest.

One of the real reasons for the success of the affair was the committee. To assist him in helping shape his plans, Mr. Gauss selected Catherine Murphy, decorations; Odessa Harshbarger, food; Geraldine Iler, patrons; Jean Terry, programs; Sidney Campbell, finance; Walter McAdoo, orchestra; Carlton Hook, arrangements; and Herb Cole, entertainment.

Women's Forensics

WITH the winning of another state oratorical contest by Miss Alberta Leistriz, using her oration entitled, "Lift Thy Voice, America," interest has been aroused in debate and oratory. Most of the debaters are orators as well.

The question taken by the women's debate team this year was: "Resolved, that the practice of installment buying of consumption goods should be condemned." They scheduled debates with Eureka, McKendree, Illinois College, and Wheaton.

The two teams included:

Affirmative:

CLARA WEIR
FRANCES BEYER
JENNIE BERMAN

Negative:

CATHERINE STATES
CAROL WERCKLE
OLIVE PFANDER

Top Row: FULLER, BANTA, BRYAN.

Men's Forensics

THE non-decision debate of last year was largely abandoned in the state and a critic judge was substituted. It was found that a non-decision debate lacked the spirit of rivalry which both the audience and the debaters find stimulating and interesting.

The men's teams met Shurtleff, Eureka, Lombard, and Illinois college in either dual or triangular debates. Their question was: "Resolved, that the principal sources of hydro-electric power in the United States should be owned and developed by the public."

The teams included:

Affirmative:

WALTER HENDRICKS
WILLIAM GAUSS
RALPH SOURS

Negative:

GORDON BRYAN
MAX G. FULLER
FRANKLIN BANTA

O, HAVE I FORGOTTEN?

O, have I forgotten?—I quickly forget
The hours of my weakness to passion, and yet
These stars that we counted in Heaven's deep bed,
Celestial tokens of words that we said,
Are blurred from the far-stretching sky with a tear
While alone in the garden I'm loitering here,
A tear for our vows (yes, a tear of regret).
I have not forgotten; how could I forget!
—Howard Nutt.

MEDITATION

I saw the world at eventide
All hues of copper, gold, and blue;
I laid my toil and care aside:
Dear one, my thoughts were all of you.

I caught a glimpse of rosy dawn,
My heart, it sounded not a beat;
I knelt in silence as a fawn
Who hears the hunter's tired retreat.

I heard the droning of the bee,
Small wizard of the world of work,
I would that life could come to me
In love, where dreamy shadows lurk.

I felt the zephyrs round me play,
Each little breeze with thoughts profound,
Great star, I would that I could say
What in my soul does now abound.
—Elda Marie Lutz.

Everyday Adventure

IT is not a dull thing, this going to school every morning; there is always the tang of adventure, the breath of the unknown, the expectancy of the unusual awaiting you at the start of the school day. Lovely are the early spring mornings when you arise at six-thirty to walk to school . . . red sun in the east, green trees and grasses, cool morning air, heavy and fresh with night dew. Poor city dweller, you must appreciate the little you have of nature. Few people are on the street at this early hour; here and there figures hurry townward, a lean dark youth in shirtsleeves, two small quarreling children. You sniff the air; some of the spring wind which makes a colt heady fills your nostrils and makes you want to run and run.

Here is Esme's house. You whistle a special call, two trills ending in a flutelike run. Esme comes out; you both chatter at once. If the time is short, you go by the nearest way, down an avenue with big old houses set far back on green lawns, past the Jangling Tree with its fan-shaped leaves, past Main Street, with show windows full of new cars, fascinating, desirable, impossibly priced. On leisurely days you choose the longer but more delightful way of Columbia Terrace. You and Esme play the rather childish game of selecting houses; she takes the English brick cottage, and you choose the house of gabled roof and blue shutters.

And always, as you walk, there is talk of books. My dear, have you read Feuchtwanger? Or perhaps the name is Wasserman, Saki, Norman Douglas, Hugh Walpole, your literary enthusiasm of the moment. There are inarticulate, youthful impressions and exchanges. You discuss people, too, and give confidences, shy and self conscious.

More sophisticated and scintillating is the conversation when another of your friends takes you to school. Gay, sparkling banter, keen thrusts, talk as glowing as the tip of a cigaret seen in darkness. Criticism of institutions, marriage, college, Rotary clubs; frank discussions of life, people, school organizations; talk of the latest, gayest novels. Our words fly through the car like sparks. Someone makes a simile—words are like the tobacco in a cigaret, conversation is the match which fires them to life. Bravo! The rest applaud, begin to make similies. As innocuous as a bowl of skim milk; as dashing as a certain sorority on the campus; as insignificant as a well-known fraternity; as intelligent as another Greek brotherhood. With impudence we thumb our noses at the college—organizations, school, students, faculty.

But the days when you go to school early to finish some incomplete piece of work, to read a few moments in the library! Then up betimes, to take an early bus to school, to sit among working men with lunch pails, workingwomen with ungloved hands, roughened from the hardest toil. You feel—oh, snob!—superior to them; you feel—oh, democrat!—akin to them; you feel—oh, sentimentalist!—sorry for them. To think that but for the grace of God—no, no! don't finish the thought!

A quick glance at the city below the hill as the bus turns on High Street—a dream city, unbelievably white, mysterious, rising, splendid out of pink-shot gray mist, while beyond, the river runs by like a flame. The day is climaxed by this moment, the rest of the hours sliding downward from a peak of emotion.

—Cecil Royalty, '30.

MY SOUL

I think my soul's a chocolate drop
With a round, rollicking face
Steeped in the blood of cherry pop
Which is always running a race.

When I lean on the ledge of a candy shop
And gaze at the browns in the case,
My heart oozes out with a pippity plop
And joins my soul's sweet race.

—Muriel Peterson.

BLUE FLAME, GLOW STEADILY

I sing songs that are full of joy,
But there is a sob in them.
Is it that I am too happy
For laughter only?
Is it that I love many people
With so great a love
I cannot hold it?
I have been told that youth often feels
It loves so vastly,
But that such love passes with the years
And is forgotten.
Is it all I have
That I want to last forever—
My love of people—
All people.

—Margaret Shepherdson.

The Ring

Jan. 20.

Dear Sis,

I humbly admit that it was a mistake for me to wear your diamond home, but most of all for me to wear it to school. I wore it only as a joke, but the joke's on me. Every one admired it and made wild guesses as to who he could be. At each hint I merely looked wise, but said nothing. Last week the TECH came out with, "Immune Eileen has fallen. Wonder who he is?" Then, Bob came up for the week-end. All he comes for is to pour into my ear about the charms of that silly Maybelle (she's far more than the name implies). Well, we went to the basket-ball game. During some of his whispered confidences, I looked up just in time to see Grace say to another girl, "How devoted!" After the game Dr. Fisher, who thinks that he is quite privileged as far as I'm concerned, congratulated Bob. That was all right, but when Phil came up and did the same, Bob said, "Just why all the congratulations?" Phil replied, "For winning Eileen, of course." I got Bob away before he could say anything damaging, but, after he got it out of me, he did nothing but moan about his beautiful Maybelle. Before we got home I had him convinced that her tender little feelings would never be hurt because the engagement would die a natural death in a few days. At church today Mrs. Smithers congratulated Bob, for she had heard about it from Grace. Bob was so mad that he left without any dinner and without speaking to me. I know he is furious because he has to go back to school and can't see his undesigning Maybelle before Friday. I am in a fix.

In deep anxiety,

LEE

Jan. 28.

Dear Sis,

Last Wednesday Mother came to me with tears in her eyes and said that she never would have believed that she would hear about my engagement from another, but as long as it was Bob she was very happy. As guests came just then I haven't had a minute to explain. Thursday came a letter from Bob's Mother saying how happy they were about it. Friday Bob himself came. Mother thought it was pure devotion, but I knew that it WAS NOT. He showed me a letter from that silly Maybelle in which she said that, as long as he had got himself engaged, showing that he thought nothing of their secret engagement, she had got herself married. So Bob told me that he would stay engaged to me for a month provided that I break it then. He said that he would cheerfully take a cattle boat to Europe to be out of all designing women's clutches. I am engaged for one month.

Love from a designing

LEE.

March 1.

Dear Sis,

I am no longer engaged. As per agreement I broke it, but I'm in love, which is worse. WE had been such friends for a month—he came every week-end as a devoted man should—but just as he left I started a foolish quarrel and told him that it was all off. As he looked rather hurt all the way to the train, I put a note in his book saying that the month was up. I thought that he would at least acknowledge it but he hasn't. It is silly of me to care, but I do.

Love,

LEE.

May 1.

Dear Sis,

I'm going to be married as soon as we both graduate. Remember the note that I put in Bob's book? As he was feeling so blue because of our quarrel, he never opened it until the other day. When he saw my note, he cut all his classes and came immediately. I'm exceedingly happy, and I owe it all to your diamond ring. Bob wants to add a line.

LEE.

Dear Soon-to-be-Sister,

I want to add my thanks to Lee's.

Your-soon-to-be-brother,

BOB.

THE COLLEGE MOTHER GOOSE

Sing a song of greenbacks,
Pocket full of rye,
Four-and-twenty frat men,
Ginned up to the eye.

When the rye was opened
The boys began to scream,
Now wasn't that a pretty sight
To set before a Dean!

The Dean was in the business room,
Counting college money;
The Deaness in her office,
Speaking words of honey;

The Co-ed in the garden,
Looking at the moon,
Along came a college lad
And took her off to spoon!

—Cecil Royalty.

HEAD TO THE WIND

I built my fire one wintry night between two naked pines,
The broad wind whistled through their boughs with ceaseless wails and whines.
Yet as I listened, the careless wind that bowed and swayed the trees,
Played on their boughs, instead of wails, slow, sad, melodies
That caught my heart with a tuneful song, a song of long ago
Sung at the hearth of the old home by the friends I used to know:—
Days that are gone, days that are dead, friends who were true and kind.
I buttoned my coat about my ears and bowed my head to the wind.

—Howard Nutt.

We College Boys

WE have advanced; we have gained wisdom. Four years ago we were mere bewildered "freshies" who thought that there could be nothing better in life than to become fit college students and learn all of the ways and mannerisms which college students must know. In the popular parlance of that day our ultimate goal was to become "collegiate—nothing intermejit." If this much desired end was to be achieved we had to take care that we wore no garters, had over-sized trousers, and fulfilled other exacting requirements.

Such barbarous conditions are no more, however. After four years within the college's sheltering walls we have gained a broader vision and a more comprehensive outlook on life. Our interests are no longer confined to such narrow bonds. In our present enlightened state we are concerned with such weighty matters as proper methods of "makin' whoopee," graceful ways to "faw down and go boom," and like activities of tremendous moment.

That is how others, or some others see us, and that is perhaps how we are, part of the time, and to some extent, (and other qualifying phrases.) Though we entirely disclaim the glory (?) granted us in the exaggerated pictures of college life in the "movies," magazines, and funny papers, of leading a benighted existence in which our only aim is to become apt at the accomplishments mentioned above, and similar enterprises, we must admit that there is some slight grain of truth in these views. The regrettable thing is that so many people believe that this small part of college life represents the whole.

Perhaps we ourselves are largely to blame for this misconception. We know that, for the great majority of the students, most of the time, the so-called "collegiate" side of a student's activities in college is relatively unimportant. The public can not see the hours and days spent in class-room, laboratory, and library. It can not see the outside activities of a worth-while, serious nature. All that it can see is the lighter side, the occasional outbursts between the serious periods. We do not present the better aspect to the public. If people could see the whole thing as it really is, as we see it, the serious side with that not so serious, they would not hold their present, distorted views. Until that time, however, we will, in the eyes of the "dear public," continue to concentrate our attention on avoiding the evil of garters and "fawing down and going boom" as gentlemen and college graduates should.

—David Owen, '29.

Bradley Calendar

SEPTEMBER

Tenth: The cafeteria becomes transformed into a dispensary of knowledge. A most persistent door-man insists that upper classmen are strictly not desirable customers.

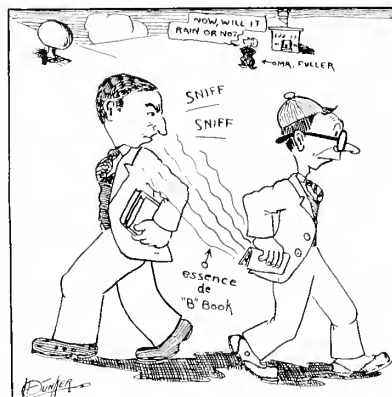

Eleventh: The upper classmen get their taste of the sweet and luscious fruits of knowledge.

Twelfth: Dr. Hamilton un-embalms the traditions of Bradley. Then come the high piping voices of frightened freshmen: "Can you tell me where room 131 is? I can't seem to find it around here."

Fourteenth: The freshmen obtain the opportunity of mingling with their betters on an even footing. Speaking of footing—were that little darky's feet under control or not? Gilda Gray has nothing on him.

Seventeenth: The deans' offices overflow with prospective class changers. Do they hear the same old excuses every year?

Nineteenth: The conservatory staff strut their stuff—"Embarrassment" finds a highly appreciative audience.

Twentieth: After a slight delay the freshmen's "bibles" are issued, their covers most delightfully perfumed. What would we do without our "B" books?

Twenty-fourth: Mrs. Huston tells us all how to be good little boys and girls and why. The Lambda Phi's get to drink from the cup of scholarship this year.

Twenty-sixth: First pep meeting of the year. "Robbie" and Mr. Hewitt give their usual talks and award trophies. After a few rather unsuccessful attempts, Bob Flock finally succeeds in working up some pep for the game Saturday.

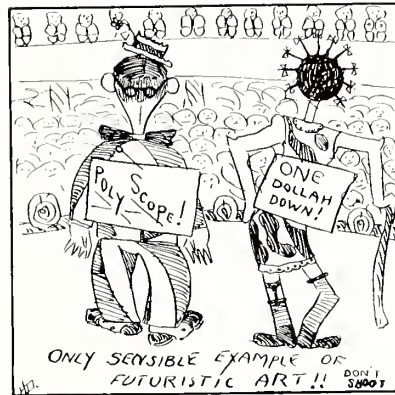

Twenty-ninth: Bradley vs. Macomb Normal. Was it our "big boy" who demoralized the teachers? Five men out in one game is quite an achievement.

OCTOBER

Third: According to Dean Johnson of Illinois, if the only reason that Lindbergh flew the Atlantic was because he failed in his studies at Wisconsin, the shores of Europe would have been overcrowded long ago.

Sixth: We are bloody but unbowed. It means a lot just to be able to play Illinois.

Eighth: Elness and Metzger proudly enter the "halls of learning" and receive ovations from their friends—a touchdown against Illinois.

Tenth: The Polyscope staff makes its debut.

Twelfth: Founder's Day. Dr. Boucher of the University of Chicago backs our younger generation anyhow. Perhaps there is some hope for us poor degenerate humans after all.

Fifteenth: Ben Perry's threat no doubt will immediately take effect, and the poor freshmen will have nightmares in which they have a convict hair-cut like Ralph Sours'.

Twentieth: Dads, dads, dads—the campus just teeming with dads. They helped us beat the "big Swedes."

Twenty-sixth: Who do we see here, there, and everywhere? The answer is easy enough Louise and Evan, of course.

Thirty-first: Sailors and uniforms; uniforms and sailors; sailors and uniforms and trouble—with all due apologies, etc., etc.

NOVEMBER

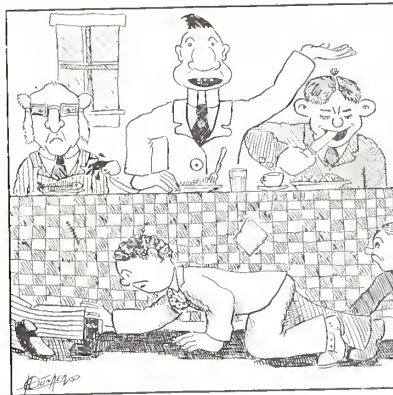

- Second:* We begin to wonder if this will be another forty day and forty night affair.
- Fifth:* Betty Cody seems to be one of the angles of an eternal (or infernal) quadrangle. One wonders at times if John, Ben, and Stan can all be serious.
- Ninth:* The beginning of Homecoming. The stunt show goes over with a bang. The sororities bite their finger nails in envy. The Sig Phis are up on their stuff all right. Is it permitted to ask, "Whence came the ideas?"
- Tenth:* Class rush, hobo parade, game, dinner, dance—all mean Homecoming.
- Eleventh:* Armistice day would have to come on Sunday. Stan wonders just why they had the war if they're not going to celebrate it.
- Twelfth:* Dr. Wyckoff wonders how it can be possible that Jean Terry, who was so prominent in the Homecoming affairs, knows her U. S. history lesson so well. It's no secret to the rest of the class.

- Twenty-second:* What we are anxious to know is: Just why does Mr. Geiger stand outside the Spanish room door with such an expectant smile on his face?
- Twenty-eighth:* Thanksgiving recess—hooray!
- Twenty-ninth:* Thanksgiving day of course means football. A spectacular game with Cornell. Thanksgiving also means home, Mother, and plenty to eat.

DECEMBER

- Third:* Back to the old grind again with Christmas to which to look forward—and occasional week-ends, of course.

Seventh: The team forget their good manners, inculcated by “Robbie,” at the athletic banquet and refuse to stay for the speeches. One almost envies their nerve.

Eleventh: We play Illinois in basketball and of course are defeated—nevertheless remember the great cardinal virtue—“Don’t give up the ship.”

Fourteenth: The best way to avoid electioneering is to stay out of the halls. Both Terry and Bill Gauss are anxious to lead the Prom. Well, who wouldn't be?

Seventeenth: Bill is elected Prom chairman. Three rousing cheers and all that rot. The next question of course is, "Who will he pick to help him lead?" No doubt he'll be the most popular man on the campus until he makes one girl happy.

Nineteenth: What? Christmas vacation already? After all the exams it comes as a blessed relief. Everyone looks forward to this and that dance during the holidays. In the halls one hears, "What do you suppose the Theta Kappa Nus are going to give as favors?" or "Are you going to the Alpha Pi dance?"

Twenty-fifth: Good old Santa Claus never fails. When school resumes we'll hear, "Oh what did you get for Christmas? I got a diamond!" The boys who give diamonds for Christmas forget that there's not much chance of getting them back if they're given as gifts.

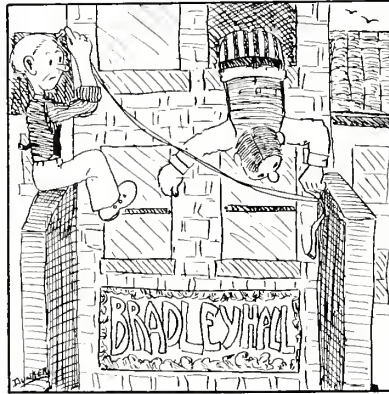

Thirtieth: We just know some of the Theta Kappa Nu's go to church and even drop street car slugs in the collection box. Oh well, what can one expect from pledges?

Thirty-first: Eat, drink, and make whoopee for to-morrow—is New Year's Day, and we have to start keeping our resolutions.

JANUARY

Second: Just how many of us got fooled and came to school half a day early? Surely it can't be anxiety to get to school and start on the grind that leads to finals. No, it must be fear of losing the dollar.

Fourth: Tiny Harter breaks his resolution already—he has another date.

Eighth: Vernie Swanson and Earl Miller revert to type—the students gaze at them with mouths agape as they clamber all over the outside of Bradley Hall taking measurements. Visions of Darwin!

Eleventh: Dean Gault is seen rushing madly around the campus after various and sundry freshmen trying to collect the dollar fine. More power to him!

Sixteenth: James Edward Tripp nominated on the Democratic ticket for Alderman of the 4th ward. Let's see—Al Smith ran on the Democratic ticket, didn't he? Is it all a joke?

Twenty-second: Hats flying and deafening shouts! Why? A victory over Wesleyan, of course—an overtime game at that.

Twenty-sixth: Maybe we were too self-confident. Many and varied were the verdicts and slams on the referee as we mournfully filed out of the gym after taking a licking by Saint Viator's.

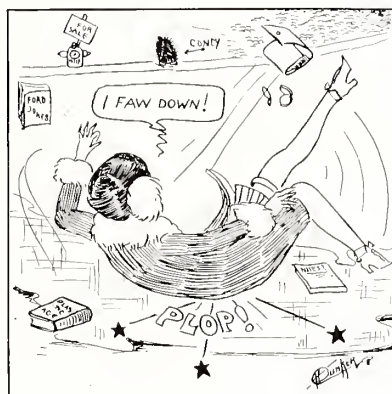

Thirtieth: Seen on an advanced composition theme: "Dashing as Delta Kappa, Insignificant as Beta Phi Theta, Innocuous as Sigma Chi Gamma, Putrid as Lambda Phi, Intelligent as Theta Kappa Nu, Athletic as Beta Sigma Mu." What's the answer? Perhaps an unusual insight into human nature, perhaps not. Anyhow why omit Sigma Phi and Alpha Pi? No doubt the author ran out of suitable epithets.

FEBRUARY

First: Last day of exams. One and all we heave hearty sighs of relief and decide to celebrate before next semester begins and spoils it all.

Fourth: Anxious faces haunting the posted grades. Choruses of "ohs" and "ahs" mixed with groans and imprecations. Donald Chave shouting gleefully, "Horray! I passed Spanish!"

Eighth: Such a touching picture—poignantly romantic—Les Tucker and Bernice Miller sitting in the windows on the landing cutting out dear little red hearts.

Tenth: Nell Toberty attempts a back somersault on the ice in back of the Manual Arts building. Later she is seen limping across the campus in a sadly dilapidated condition.

Fourteenth: Herman Haven is seen loaded with Valentines labelled: "To my one and only Sweetheart."

Seventeenth: Benny Brewster starts wearing a shamrock a month ahead of time—just to be sure he has it on St. Patrick's Day.

Twenty-second: We all troop out for Washington's birthday. It's a good thing some men have birthdays. At least it gives us another day of peace and quiet (?).

Twenty-fifth: Belated Valentines for Mom and Dad from Miss LeFevre—all about how well we did in extra-curricular activities last semester.

Twenty-seventh: Mrs. Jacques Bloom lets all of us girls in on the secret of "Good Taste in Dress." Now we all know how to feel superior to a Grafine.

MARCH

First: March comes in like a lion all right. How those breezes do blow! The corner of Main and Jefferson will be popular this month.

Fourth: We all hurry to chapel to hear the inauguration address over the radio but the pangs of hunger call us away before the president-elect gets to talk. However, we did hear the vice-president speak and the senators get sworn in.

Fifth: Jack White receives in the mail a picture of a dark-eyed beauty inscribed: "To the sweetest little boy in all the world," but Jack doesn't seem to appreciate the sentiment, strange as that may seem.

Sixth: Due to the deaths from poisoned liquor, the halls are full of vows of "Never again!" From the expression on their faces, varying from expectancy of immortality to fear of the warmer climes, one can pick out the chief offenders easily.

Eighth: Senior Ball! Oh to be a Senior!

Eleventh: Morbid curiosity draws us down to the chemistry lab. where Cromwell Ashman shows us in delightful detail the stomachs, livers, and other parts quite unpronounceable, of the men who died from poisoned liquor. He even lets us smell the putrifaction liquid emanating from the slowly decomposing stomachs. Uf! Ugh! And other expressions of joy.

Sixteenth: The Polyscope goes to press. The fortune teller in Bartonville furnishes the remainder of the material for the calendar.

Eighteenth: John Gallander calmly dreams of the old swimmin' hole while unconsciously wiping his feet on Evelyn Best's crowning glory.

Twenty-first: All your hopes are dashed to the ground now, girls. Bill has picked Martha to help him lead the Prom.

Twenty-fifth: We entertain a nice and affectionate but oh! how dirty! puppy in chapel. Every minute he is expected to chime in and help Mr. Blackman with the singing, but somehow he just doesn't seem interested.

Twenty-seventh: Easter vacation begins. If it weren't for the material due before and after the holidays, we might enjoy our brief week of relaxation.

APRIL

First: April Fool! It's only Stew Becker up to his kittenish tricks again.

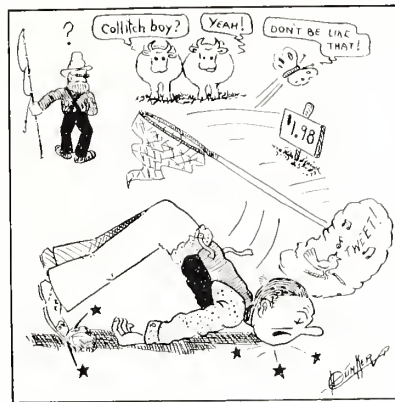

Fourth: End of Easter vacation. Did we say a week of relaxation? From the looks of some of our able students, they have come back to school only to rest.

Sixth: Last opportunity to remove conditions. Now will you be good? ! ?

Eighth: Elaine McCaddon and Fran Duke hold up the newel post on the first landing between nine and ten as usual. What will we do when Fran graduates? Put up statues?

Twelfth: The Prom—subject of raptures and sweet memories for weeks after.

Sixteenth: Frank Blumb enters Spanish class ten minutes late again. There seems to be some remarkable attraction in the gymnasium. Or is it the usual excuse—swimming today?

Eighteenth: With the coming of spring, Stan B.'s fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love, so he starts chasing butterflies out among the great open spaces where cows are contented. It is rumored that Marjorie spent an entire afternoon rubbing his chin with arnica.

Twentieth: French Club banquet—a bromide for the many weary hours conjugating verbs and learning idioms. We are now prepared to read any of the menus at the Ritz.

Twenty-third: Cecil Royalty spends an uplifting hour in the library catching flies. With a few more weeks' practice she may become expert.

Twenty-seventh: Junior-Senior Girls' breakfast. Bernice Schwartz unaccustomed to the early hour, falls asleep only to be awakened by the eight o'clock bell.

Thirtieth: Christy playfully borrows some kids' skates and puts on an exhibition in front of the hall which ends rather disastrously.

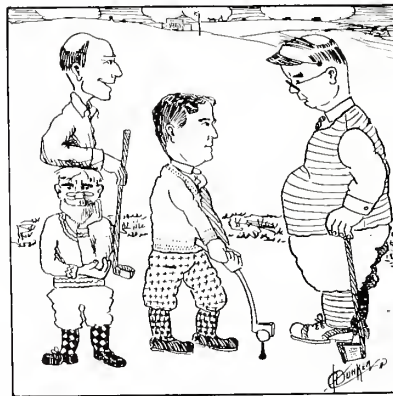

MAY

First: Ray Fearheiley is seen furtively hanging a May basket on Annabel Straesser's locker door and running away. These playful children!

Fourth: The Child Welfare class gets an opportunity for practical work—Bradley Interscholastic. Practical jokers are in their element giving indefinite or misleading directions.

Sixth: Ha! Ha! We know you! The seniors can't fool us just by dressing up in caps and gowns. We know them too well.

Thirteenth: Florence Step and Ralph have moved from the library to the tombstone to do their studying. Studying? Studying what?

Eighteenth: The faculty takes up the tired-business-man's game. Dr. Swaim has the form, Dr. Hamilton the stance, Dr. Comstock the thinker's attitude (trying to decide the mathematically correct way of making a hole-in-one), and Mr. Gault—well, he supplies the wit and uncertain epithets when he tops his ball.

Twenty-first: John Manning is caught reciting poetry to Betty. Spring is indeed here with a vengeance.

Twenty-third: In spite of their alarm clocks, most of the students got to the May Breakfast on time.

Twenty-seventh: The tombstone is haunted these balmy May evenings with the shadows of past (?) Romeos and Juliets.

Thirtieth: Holiday.

JUNE

First: Dunker has a change of heart and gets a civilized hair cut.

Third: Somehow or other we are beginning to think about exams.

Seventh: What do the rest of us care about the mournful laments of the seniors? We know they're just as glad to go as we are.

Tenth: Baccalaureate service: the seniors do begin to feel some pangs at leaving us.
It'll never be quite the same without them.

Thirteenth: The alumni visit their good old Alma Mater again.

Fourteenth: Convocation. Good-bye everybody. To many of us this means that Bradley becomes from this time only a fond, fond memory.

WHAT is in a year? A cycle of the sun,
the springtime verdure, and the autumn haze, the scent of flowers, the woodland roundelays. The stately constellations, one by one, traversing the bright heaven;
oft begun and oft repeated, moonlights changing phase. The sweet succession of familiar days, and nights of welcome rest from labor done, ever recurring, and yet never new. Each cycle of the spiral upward tends. Old scenes, old seasons, freshly brought to view; the charm of repetition never ends and shadows forth our immortality.

THE social life, found in the college organizations, clubs, fraternities, and sororities, are an essential part of college days. Associations are formed, lasting friendships are made, and social as well as educational benefits result from participation in activities of these organizations. Although the major virtues of a college are closely allied with the ability of its faculty and the education imparted to its students, organizations help serve a purpose of high value all their own.

PHI SIGMA PI fraternity was established to promote high scholarship among men specializing in education. Each year this organization awards a gold medal to the junior man enrolled in the teacher training course of Bradley college, who has the highest scholastic average for his first two years at Bradley, and who takes an active interest in education. The scholarship medal this year went to Orville Connett.

During the year, meetings of this organization are held at which prominent speakers are secured to address the group. Open forum meetings are part of the program planned for the year.

In addition to a scholarship fund that is being established by Phi Sigma Pi, the fraternity is also raising a printing fund, which will in time go toward furthering a course in printing at Bradley college.

THE Illinois Gamma Chapter of Pi Gamma Mu was founded at Bradley Institute in May, 1927. Its membership is limited to those who have excelled in one or more departments of social science and who have maintained a scholastic average of "B" or above. The term social science includes biology, economics, education, history, philosophy, political science, psychology, and sociology.

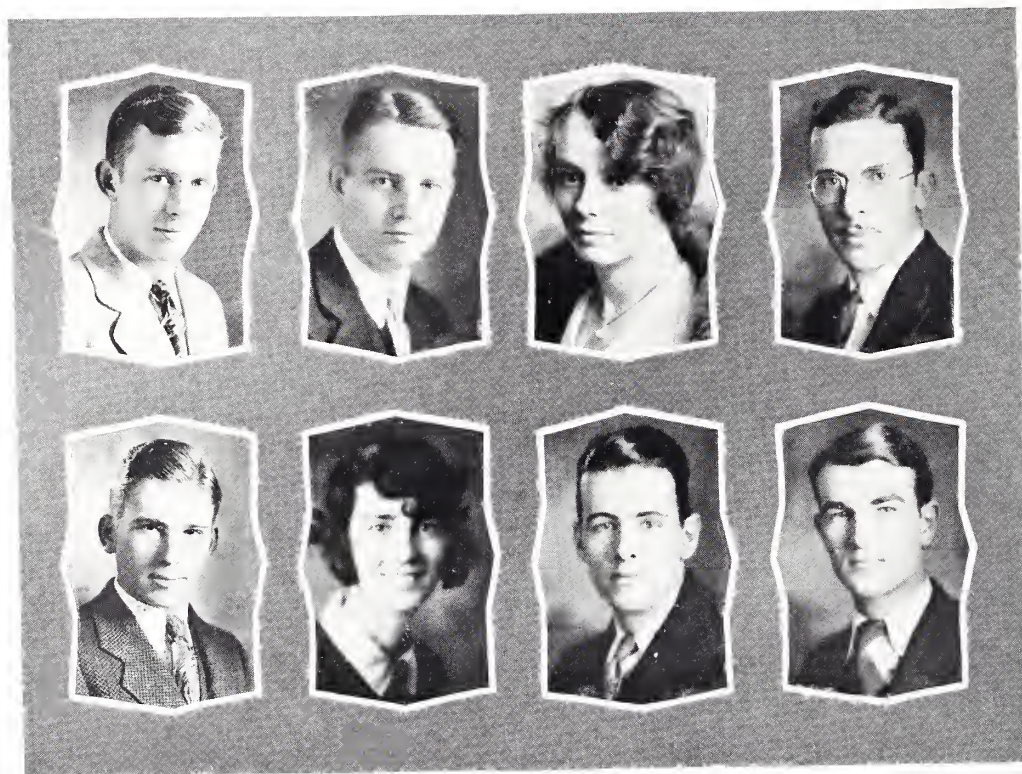

The chief purpose of the organization is to foster high scholarship and to stimulate mental achievement in the social sciences by the prize of membership. It aims especially at the promotion of social interest in the undergraduate student—that interest which will urge him on toward the solution of social problems in the scientific spirit and by scientific methods.

There are at the present time seventy-one chapters of Pi Gamma Mu in the country. In addition to these organized chapters, this society counts among its members-at-large a high percentage of the social science leaders of the present day. "Social Science," a quarterly publication, is significant of the work and interests of Pi Gamma Mu.

MASK and Gavel presents several dramatic productions in cooperation with the play-production class each season, under the direction of the instructor in dramatic art, Miss Lois Meadows. There were also several short plays given at some of the monthly meetings of the club. Membership in this organization is limited to forty students.

The first production, given in December, was entitled "The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde. The play was of three acts and brought out the varied abilities of the actors.

THE purpose of the Bradley Commerce Club is to create and cement the bonds between the students of the Business Administration Department and the business men of Peoria. The club is run as a corporation and has all the corporate powers as such. Dividends are paid at each meeting, in the form of refreshments. The capital stock consists of common and preferred shares. The students buy the common stock and the preferred stock is donated to the various speakers.

The stockholders elect the directors, three each semester. The following are the directors for the year 1928-1929:

Sidney Campbell, Howard Poppen, Jesse Getz, Robert Hutchins, Edwin Carey, Mandel Deames, William Mason, Francis Walker and Charles Roberts.

BRADLEY LOYALTY SONG

Here's our pledge to Bradley,
Loyal hearts and hands
Loudly sing your praises in a mighty band.
Ever forward Bradley
We'll praise you to the sky
Ever keep your banners flying
While you hear this cry.

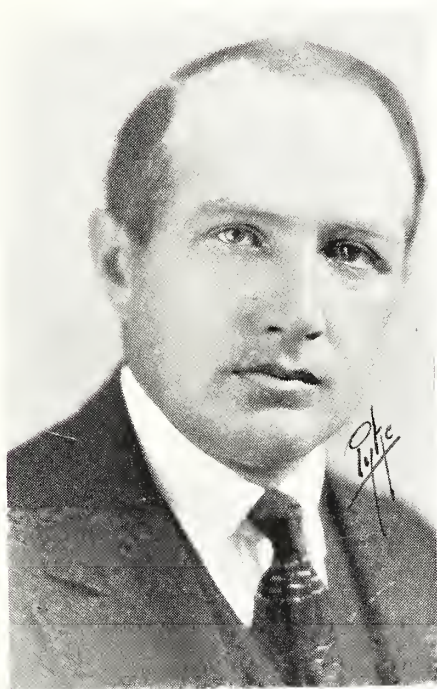

Chorus

Charge on, charge on, Bradley,
March right down the field.
Foes may press you;
Foes may even stress you,
But we'll never yield!
Fight for alma mater
Plunge right thru to victory.
Fight on, fight on, Bradley,
Fight for varsity.

COACHING STAFF

HEAD COACH A. J. ROBERTSON

C. M. HEWITT

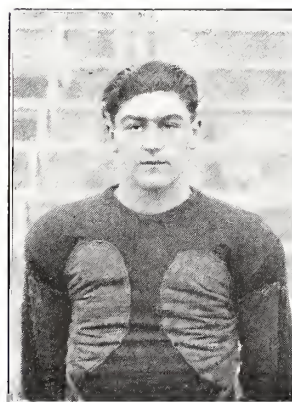

Track Coach

Coach Hewitt is a famous track star of Ames College and has been a member of the Bradley faculty for a number of years. Since his stay at Bradley his teams have won three state championships and have placed second in the state twice. Hewitt's Harriers won the first Little 19 cross-country meet which was held last fall at Bradley and have been the state cross-country champions for the past five years. He is an excellent judge of talent and in the past few years has developed many stars. Our coach is recognized by all as one of the greatest track coaches in the middle west.

J. I. MEINEN

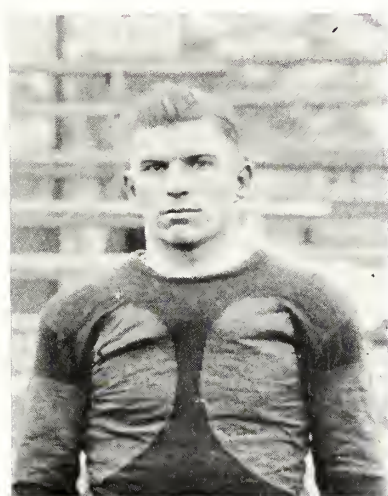

"Dutch" is assistant football coach, swimming coach, tennis coach, and has full charge of the well known intra-mural sports. He has been assisting Robertson since 1924, and since coming back to Bradley as a coach, has helped to build our great teams. Meinen was all-state tackle for four years while attending Bradley. He is known on the campus as the "fighting Dutchman."

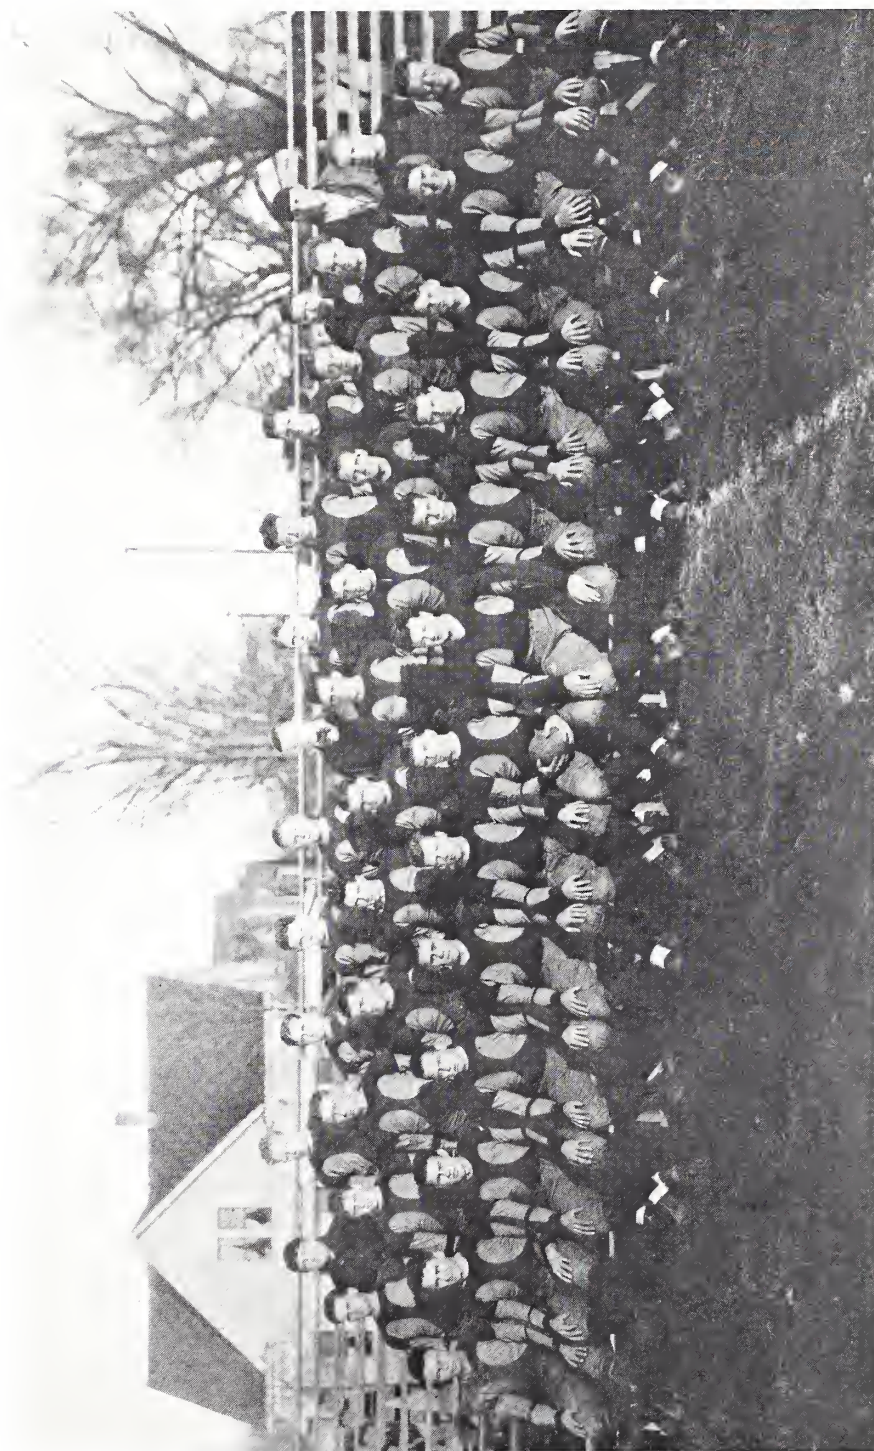

E. K. FRIEDRICH

"Freddy" is our Freshman coach and since coming to Bradley as a coach has succeeded in producing strong Freshmen teams. His great work in developing future stars is being recognized as a great asset to the Bradley teams.

FOOTBALL

CAPT. WILLIAM METZGER

Top Row: A. J. ROBERTSON, Coach; McKEIGHAN, SUFFIELD, CROOKSHANK, LANDIS, WAGNER, Mgr., WHARRY, HARMS, Capt.-Elect; STEINER, BAUMFLECK, J. I. MEINER, Asst. Coach.
 Middle Row: RICE, BATORSON, KINNEY, FEARHEILEY, HAIG, PERRY, WALKER, DUKE, CONN, GALITZ, NURSS, GOTTLIEB.
 Bottom Row: NOBLE, ALLISON, HECKMAN, THORNTON, WAUGH, KNOOP, METZGER, Capt.; HARTER, McQUEEN, ODFELL, MASON, CAMPBELL, ELLNESS.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM METZGER

"BULLET BILL"

All-Conference Halfback

The greatest line plunger in the Little 19 for many seasons. Bill plowed his way through many opposing lines to give victory to Bradley. He scored the only touchdown which the Tech-men ever made against Illinois university. He was prominent in the winning of every ball game this year and could always be counted on for at least two or three yards through the line.

Bill was an ideal leader, one whom his mates looked up to and endeavored to follow. He had a likeable personality that won the admiration of his opponents as well. Bradley was very fortunate in having a man such as him to serve as captain.

WILLIAM KNOOP

"BILL"

The speed of this fellow made him one of the most valuable men on the squad. When Bill was called on to come back from his guard position for interference on an end run, one never found him lagging, but he was always there to take off his man. Bill's specialty was drop-kicking, an act which he was often called on to perform after a touchdown. This was his first and last year of varsity football competition, and we are sorry to lose him.

LELAND ELNESS

"SHORTY"

All-Conference Halfback

This bushy-haired young man from Minnesota has played his last game for the Red and White, but his name will go down in the history of the school as the big reason for the success of the 1928 football machine. He, with Metzger, was named on every all-conference selection seen by this writer. His bullet-like pegs usually found their mark and toward the end of the season he developed an ability to punt. When "Shorty" got loose in the open field, there was no stopping him. In this respect, he was without a peer in the conference.

HAROLD ODELL

"HAL"

Third All-State Guard

"Hal" was always working for the best interests of the squad. He was a reliable type of player who could be counted on to come through in the pinches. His size was somewhat of a handicap to him at a guard position, but he more than made up for this with lots of fight and determination. When Robbie was short of backfield material at the end of the season, he called "Hal" into service and found a lad, quick to learn, who filled the hole with adaptness.

BRADLEY 25, WESTERN TEACHERS 6

First Game. The dope in this game was largely in favor of the teachers from Macomb, but as is often the case the "dope bucket" was upset. Our line, which contained only two veterans, McQueen and Campbell, came through in great style and proved to the local fans that they would be able to stand up with the best of them this year. Metzger and Elness carried the ball down into scoring distance by a series of line bucks, and the former carried it over for the first touchdown of the year. Galitz's interception of a lateral pass and his subsequent run of 55 yards to a touchdown was one of the spectacular parts of the day's play. The outstanding thing about this game was the fact that it proved to all the critics that Robertson could come through with a powerful team in spite of the lack of experienced material.

BRADLEY 6, ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY 33

Second Game. The classic game on Bradley's football schedule was the tussle with the University of Illinois before the largest opening-day crowd ever to assemble at the Memorial stadium at Champaign. This great throng first realized that they were to witness a real contest when Bradley took the ball in the first quarter on the fifty-yard line and never relinquished their hold until they had scored six points on the Big Ten champions. While this was the only score of the game for the Indians, they continued their good game by holding the score to 7-6 at half-time.

The second half of this battle was something of a different story. The abundance of material available at a large university began to take its toll over the smaller college. Frequent substitutions of fresh men who seemed every bit as capable as the men whom they replaced enabled the Illini to wear down the opposition given them by the Tech-men. Bradley had the sum total of fourteen men in this game and that was the limit of the men who were ready to play in such a game. At different times during the game Zuppke ran in more than two full teams for Illinois. Although the game ended with a 33-6 score the Indians did not feel as though they had made a poor showing but on the contrary they were very much pleased with the fact that they were able to hold such a team as represented Illinois as well as they did.

Papers all over the country were full of praise for the playing of Metzger and Elness in this game. Both of them displayed enough stuff to gain the statements from several of the best writers that they were good enough for any Big Ten team in the conference. Willis Harms punted superbly in this contest and outkicked his opponents by more than six yards on an average of every punt kicked. Harter proved to be an immovable bulwark in the road of the opposition.

This was the second meeting of these two schools on the gridiron and the most successful from the viewpoint of both Bradley and Illinois. As a result of the splendid showing made by the boys this year they have again been granted a place on the Illini schedule. Next fall will find them playing the second game of the season at Champaign.

VERNON HECKMAN
"SQUIRRELLY"

The boy with the "educated toe" wound up his career against Cornell and what a finish it was for him, too. Heckman played the most brilliant game of his career against the Iowans before a large Thanksgiving day crowd on the local lot. He seemed to be in nearly every play, defensively, and carried the ball like a madman. His ability was not, however, confined only to the backfield, for he played some excellent games at an end position in the early part of the season.

WILLIAM MASON
"WILD BILL"

Third All-State Quarterback

A field general regarded as one of the best, Bill was also an open field runner of no mean ability. His returns of punts brought the spectators to their feet on more than one occasion, when he would twist and squirm through the arms of would-be tacklers to net gains of twenty, thirty and forty yards. The Elness-to-Mason passing combination was also one of the bright spots of Bradley's play this year and netted the Techmen many extra yards. His spectacular catch of a pass in the Wesleyan game paved the way for the last-minute touchdown a few plays later.

SIDNEY CAMPBELL
"SID"

All-Conference Center

Accurate passing and superb defensive ability won for "Sid" the name as the best center in the conference. He was forever "talking it up" in the Bradley line and helped to put the punch in the offensive with his powerful forward charge. He was the king pin in the Tech line. His kicking ability often gave his team the advantage at the start of a game when he would boot the oval over the goal line of the opposition. "Sid" returns for another year of competition.

EDWARD GOTTLIEB "EDDIE"

"Eddie" played a tackle position from the start of the season in a manner that would have been pleasing to any coach. Here was a fellow with more courage than is usually given to two or three ordinary men. He was fast and often broke through the line to haul down runners before they had hardly got started. Although he was often outweighed, he always held up his end of the battle and should prove to be a valuable asset next year.

BRADLEY 6, KNOX 0

Third Game. Trusting to their ability displayed in the Illinois game, the Techmen journeyed to Galesburg to do battle with Knox college for the third game of the season. They were surprised to find a much stronger team facing them than reports had revealed and were almost toppled from position as champion contenders in this early game.

It is difficult to say what the outstanding reason was for the poor showing made by Bradley in this contest. Perhaps it was a reaction following the tension of their game with the Illini the week previous. At any rate, the Indians displayed their poorest brand of ball in this contest. Fumbles and miscues were numerous, and it was only the brilliant run of Elness in the third quarter that saved his team from defeat. "Shorty" took the ball, after Waugh had blocked a punt on the 39-yard line, and twisted and squirmed his way through a broken field to mark up the only counter of the day.

A ninety-year-old tradition was broken by the Knox co-eds when they cheered their team on to a hoped-for victory over the Indians. The sight of their team holding Bradley and, at times, forcing Bradley backwards, was too much for the maids, and they burst forth in cheering, along with their masculine escorts.

BRADLEY 12, AUGUSTANA 0

Fourth Game. A different team took the field against the big Swedes from Augustana than the one which had faced Knox the week before. A large Dad's Day crowd was thrilled to see the Techmen emerge with a 12-0 victory over the much-heralded opposition furnished by the Augie machine.

During the entire first half of the game, neither team was able to score although Bradley came very close as the half ended. It was a bitter struggle with the ball sawing first from one end of the field to the other, but mostly staying very close to the center. At the start of the third quarter Mason changed his tactics and called upon "Shorty" Elness to display his ball-throwing wares. On a forty-yard pass to McQueen, Bradley scored her first touchdown of the game and so completely demoralized the Augustana defense that they were able to score again in the fourth period. This time the score came as the result of a series of many line bucks and off-tackle smashes by Captain Metzger and "Shorty" Elness.

The loss was a severe blow to the Vikings for it was the only one of the season for them. On the other hand, it put Bradley into the thick of the race for the conference title and made them a foremost contender. Much of the credit for our winning this game goes to Harter and Gottlieb who played stellar roles in the line.

CLYDE McQUEEN

"HOOGAN"

Third All-State End

The second year of varsity competition found Mac a much better end than he was the year before. A thorough knowledge of all the plays gave Mac the edge on many of his opponents and made him one of the best men on the team. He received recognition on nearly all of the conference selections made by the best sport writers in the loop. We have this lad with us again next year and you can bet that he will be going out after new laurels in his last year.

WILLIAM NOBLE

"ZIGGY"

"Ziggy" played at halfback and quarter. He performed equally well at either post. He has a wonderful throwing arm that made him one of the best pass tossers on the team. This boy can drop-kick with the best of them, too. When things were not going just right he was often called upon to go into the battle and straighten things out as they should be. His choice of plays was always excellent and we are glad that he is back next year.

IRA ALLISON

"HEAVY"

Ira comes back next year for his last season with the Indians. He played a great brand of ball in the Western, Knox and Augustana games. His splendid fighting spirit always helped to raise the morale of the team whenever he was injected into the fray. This young man knows the game quite well and puts it into practice. At the end of the season he was a tackle of the highest order.

ROBERT HARTER

"TINY"

All-Conference Guard

A regular stone wall on defense was this enormous lad from Chicago. The opposition would take one shot at "Tiny" and give it up as a bad job. No amount of opposition seemed to even phase this lad. We have seen him stand up against a whole backfield, hurled at him, and come up with the ball-carrier in his grasp, time and again. His powerful forward charge opened great holes for his backfield to pass through. We are certainly glad that this boy is back again next fall.

BRADLEY 32, ST. VIATOR 7

Fifth Game. Bradley kept her spotless conference record by trouncing the "fighting Irish" on the local field. St. Viator and Bradley were both sporting an undefeated record before this game and the Irish were intent on spoiling the Indians' slate but they were unable to stop the line-smashing tactics of the brilliant "Bullet Bill" Metzger. Bradley showed a vastly improved attack in defeating St. Viator so handily. Especially pleasing was the manner in which Mason handled the team from his quarterback position. He took advantage of every weakness that could be found in the defense of the "Green Wave." Metzger scored a total of three touchdowns while Elness and Mason were scoring one each. Evard scored the only touchdown for Viator on a long pass in the last quarter against a flock of Tech substitutes.

The win was decidedly costly to the Bradley cause in that the giant, Willis Harms, was lost for the season as a result of falling and breaking his wrist during the second quarter. There is no doubt but what this was the blow that dealt Bradley out of her chances in winning their fourth consecutive conference championship.

BRADLEY 6, ILLINOIS WESLEYAN 0

Sixth Game. With a crowd of 3,500 Bradley homecomers hoarsely calling for a victory, a gallant Bradley Tech football team started an offensive drive in the final four minutes of play that ended in a touchdown just before the final gun went off to give Bradley a brilliant 6-0 win over Wesleyan and its fifth consecutive conference victory. This was the hardest-fought game of the season. Time after time Captain Metzger and his mates threatened the Wesleyan goal and time after time the Wesleyan forwards rose to throw them back and finally punt out of danger. With only four minutes to go, Elness began tossing passes to McQueen and Mason. The final heave to Mason seemed almost impossible to catch but the clever Tech quarter leaped high into the air to grab the pigskin by his finger tips and bring it down to rest on the two-yard line. From there Metzger pounded the Wesleyan line twice in succession, and it was finally over. Never before had Bradley homecomers been treated to such a dish of the national collegiate game as this one was. It was only the dominant fighting spirit that prevailed in the breasts of the Indians that brought home this victory for them.

Some of the men who led the attack against the Methodists might be said to be Metzger, Elness, Harter and Campbell.

LOREN WAUGH

"Wow"

All-State Mention

Another sophomore star who filled his position in the most highly approved manner. Waugh earned his nickname in the Knox game for he certainly was a "wow" in that game. His playing overshadowed that of any of his teammates on that day and he was in practically every play. He gets down under punts with alarming swiftness and is a sure tackler. He came to Bradley from Aledo with a reputation as a prep star. His playing the past season marks him as one who came through.

GEORGE THORNTON

"BALDY"

Second All-State Tackle

Mentioned as all-conference material in one's sophomore year is certainly going some. George was a fullback on the freshman squad the previous year but he soon learned the forward position so well that he became one of the stars in the Bradley line. In order to utilize his speed he was used at guard on the offensive, where he could come out for interference. He was a powerful forward charger and could open large gaps in the opposing line.

WILLIS HARMS

"OTTO"

Captain-Elect 1929

The punting of Willis Harms was one of the outstanding features of Bradley's play against Illinois as well as in all other games until Willis had the misfortune to break his wrist in the St. Viator game so badly that he was forced out for the rest of the season. "Otto" is the type of man who makes a good leader, always working hard for the best interests of his team, and the 1928 squad did well in choosing him for their captain in the coming campaign. His injury in an early game was the only thing that prevented him from receiving conference recognition.

LESTER GALITZ

"LES"

Sport writers in this section termed this boy as being the best pass receiver in the Little 19 loop. "Les" came to the fore in the opening game when, as a substitute, he entered the game and hauled down an almost impossible pass to race thirty yards for Bradley's first score. His ability along these lines was a big factor in many later victories, as well. This was his first year of varsity competition and he'll be back for two more. Watch him go!

BRADLEY 6, MILLIKIN 14

Seventh Game. This game decided the championship of the Little 19 conference, and while Bradley lost the verdict in this muddy battle, let it be said that the team went down fighting and with a spirit that seemed to say, "Look out! I'll get you next year!"

The condition of the playing field was such that two minutes after the game had opened, it was well-nigh impossible to tell a Millikin player from one attired in the red and white of Bradley. The whole gridiron was one vast sea of mud through which the players waddled. Bradley scored first, after McQueen had blocked a Millikin punt near the goal line. Millikin scored a few minutes later when Noble gave the Big Blue an intentional safety in preference to trying to kick a slippery ball back of his own goal line. Corbett later scored on a brilliant 30-yard run through a broken field. The half ended 8-6. Corbett scored again for the victors in the last half to complete the scoring. Picking an outstanding man in this game would be impossible because the conditions of the game hardly allowed for the playing of good football.

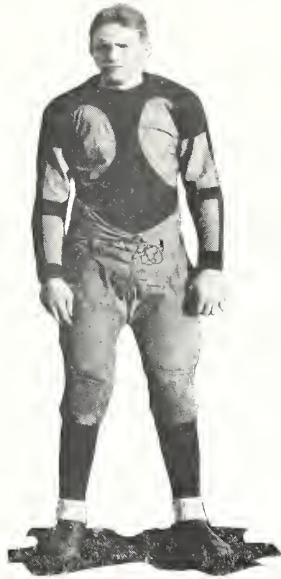

BRADLEY 39, McKENDREE 6

Eighth Game. This game was won not because of Bradley's super-playing but because of their great knowledge of the game. The Techmen simply took advantage of all the breaks that came and scored points almost at will. Elness made three touchdowns, Metzger two and Galitz one. McKendree was able to score only as a result of a long pass in the last quarter.

BRADLEY 33, CORNELL 13

Ninth Game. Over 3,000 fans witnessed this thrilling contest with Cornell college, last year's champions of the Midwest conference, which was replete with brilliant runs, quick breaks and complicated plays. Although Bradley was the victor by a wide margin, they furnished no more thrills than did these Iowans who never seemed to be conquered until the final gun had sounded. They were dangerous at all times, even to the end.

Bradley's ground-gaining twins, Metzger and Elness, were outstanding in this victory as they had been in all games during the season. Les Galitz wound up the season with a wonderful game at end, snagging two passes for touchdowns. Vernon Heckman closed his collegiate career by scoring the last touchdown for Bradley. Prominent in a stand on the six-inch line, where Cornell had four downs to make the six inches, were Sid Campbell and "Tiny" Harter. Four thrusts at the center of the line only netted them lost yardage. We meet Cornell again next year.

RUSSELL WHARRY

"RUSS"

Here was a reserve tackle who would enter a game and go at top speed for every minute of the game that he was in there. He had plenty of fight which he coupled with his weight and height to make him a very dangerous man to opposing teams. His play against the University of Illinois was one of the outstanding features of the game. His year of experience on the squad should make "Russ" a valuable man next season.

RESUME OF SEASON

The opening game with Western Teachers proved to the fans that Bradley would be represented by another strong contender for championship honors. The second game against Illinois university gave many of the boys just the experience that they needed to go through a strenuous campaign in the conference. The Augustana contest ruined the hopes of the Vikings and spurred the Techmen on to new fields. The greatest game of the season was the homecoming struggle when Bradley defeated Wesleyan with a touchdown in the last minute of play. The loss to Millikin came as a deathly blow to our championship hopes but the boys took out their vengeance on Cornell college in a brilliant Thanksgiving day struggle.

CAPT. ELECT WILLIS HARMS

LELAND ELNESS
Most Valuable Football Player in Little Nineteen

Chosen as the most valuable player in the Little 19 conference by coaches of other teams, Leland "Shorty" Elness finished his brilliant gridiron career last Thanksgiving day. The vote was taken by the Peoria Journal-Transcript among all of the football coaches in the I. I. A. C. No coach was allowed to vote for a member of his own team. This is the third straight year that the trophy has been won by a member of a Bradley team. Francis Pope won the award in 1926, and Roy Carlson won the award in 1927.

ALL CONFERENCE QUINTET

MASON, forward, Bradley	McQUEEN, center, Bradley
MEEHAN, forward, Wesleyan	HALL, guard (Capt.), Lombard
WASILEWSKI, guard, Eureka

CAPTAIN WILLIAM MASON

"Bill," as he is known on the Bradley campus, captained one of Bradley's greatest basketball quintets, and although he and his teammates didn't win the championship, they finished high among the leaders. Mason is one of the greatest forwards in the history of the Little Nineteen conference. Congratulations, Bill, on the showing of your team during the current season.

CAPTAIN-ELECT CLYDE McQUEEN

Bradley has a leader of the 1929-30 edition of the hardwood teams, Clyde McQueen, one of the most versatile athletes ever to fight for the Tech colors. As a sophomore, Mac won four varsity letters in the four major sports. For the past two seasons he has been all-conference choice at center. We wish you luck, Clyde, and hope that you lead Bradley to a championship.

FRANCIS DUKE

"Fran" is the only regular from this year's quintet who will not be on hand next season. Although he was not a flashy player, Duke was one of our best, and was given honorable mention on the All-American team. He has been chosen as third all-conference forward for the past two seasons.

STUART BECKER

From last year's reserves came this long shot artist, who was assigned to the running guard position on the Tech five. Becker was given honorable mention for his flashy playing throughout the season and next year should be one of the best. Wesleyan can testify as to his ability at sinking long tries.

WILLIS HARMS

Dame Fortune smiled unkindly on Willis when he had his wrist broken during the football campaign. Only such a misfortune could have kept him on the sidelines, as last season he was a star guard on Bradley's great team. He, too, had the honor of trimming Wesleyan, by sinking a free throw with but a few seconds left.

LESTER GALITZ

Few sophomores have enough talent to win their Varsity letter during their first year of competition, but Les proved his ability by clinching a guard position on the first team. He proved to be the backbone of the Bradley defense and through his guarding Bradley was able to outscore most of the opposition. Honorable mention on the all-star team, was voted to this chap.

LELAND ELNESS

From the gridiron, where his feats are known, came this valuable asset to the Bradley aggregation. Elness played any of the reserve positions and will be lost next season through graduation. Shorty is one of Bradley's greatest all-time heroes and his place will be hard to fill.

CAPTAIN-ELECT CLYDE McQUEEN
Most Valuable Basketball Player in Little Nineteen

"Mac" was the second Bradley man to receive the Journal-Transcript Trophy in the year 1928-1929. He was voted this honor by the coaches of the Little Nineteen for being the most valuable player to his team in the conference. Always a fighting center, a good defensive player, but especially adept in offensive drives and tip-in shots under the basket, this clean player well deserves the honor which is his.

1928 Baseball Season

BY winning nine games and losing one, the members of the Tech baseball team won undisputed claim to the Little 19 championship. The most important of their victories were their two over Saint Viator and Normal University, and one over Knox. Their only conference loss was to Knox in the last game of the season, but this was not injurious to their final standing.

Non-conference games with Michigan State and Notre Dame resulted in one point victories for these two schools, the first in ten innings. They were also defeated by the University of Illinois in a preliminary game before they opened their conference campaign. Another game which was scheduled with the University of Wisconsin had to be cancelled because of rain.

At the end of the season the Athletic Board voted letters to the following members of the squad: Clyde Meeske, Noel Gibson, Al Schuh, Harold Furrey, William Knoop, William Mason, Leo Ficker, John Wantuck, Clyde McQueen, Arthur Shipherd, Chester Lehr, Francis Duke, Norwood Howard, Edward Bland, Roy Carlson, and William Noble. A manager's letter was also voted to Warner Elson. James Van Cleave was named as manager for 1929. Gold baseballs were awarded to all letter men in recognition of their winning the I. I. A. C. championship.

A meeting of the letter men at the end of the season resulted in the election of Francis Duke as captain for the 1929 season, to succeed Captain Edward Bland.

EDWARD BLAND—Outfielder.

Without a doubt, "Red" was one of the best batters in the conference. He was a capable leader and a versatile one at that. Red was often called in to do mound duty for the Redskins and did it well. He led his team at bat with a grand average of .420. Although he was the smallest man on the team, he was also the heaviest hitter by cracking out four home runs, three triples, and four doubles.

ARTHUR SHIPHERD—Outfielder.

Here was a fellow who played a good consistent game of ball all season. While Art was never a flash he had that knack of delivering in the pinches which seems to be given to a few of us mortals. He finished the season with a perfect fielding average. Art is lost to us this year, and will be sorely missed. Reports are that he will join some semi-pro club in southern Illinois.

CLYDE MEESKE—Catcher.

Clyde started out at the hot corner where he had played wonderful ball the year before, but when McQueen was injured Robbie put him behind the bat, and Clyde came through in great style. He finished the season with an average of .364, fifty one points higher than the team batting average. We'll miss Clyde this year.

NOEL GIBSON—Pitcher.

"Gibby" came back last semester to pitch ball for Bradley, and that is exactly what he did. The way he pitched was one of the prime factors for the winning of Bradley's championship. He is a submarine artist who can stand the opposition upside down trying to hit his assortment of curves and speedballs. He was also used quite often as a pinch hitter because of his ability with the bat.

ROY CARLSON—Outfielder.

Probably the best all-around man on the squad was Roy Carlson. Certainly he was the best base stealer with a total of nineteen thefts to his credit. He also batted over the .400 mark and made only two errors in the field. We never saw a better outfielder in the Little 19 loop and if there had been an all-conference team picked, Roy would have deserved mention as captain of that outfit.

AL SCHUH—Pitcher.

Al won three games while losing one last year, besides stepping in at the last minute to save several ball games for his teammates. Al was the speedball king of the club and was the terror of all opposing batsmen. We regret to say that this Averyville star did not return to school this semester. The squad will miss him a great deal, too, for he was one of the most popular men on the team.

CHESTER LEHR—First Baseman.

A dependable coverer of the initial sack was Chet Lehr. He was a southpaw that smacked them "High, wide and handsome" when he stepped up to the plate. Chet had the highest fielding average of any regular on the squad. Robbie discovered him in the interfraternity league two years ago, and he has been a regular ever since. He'll be hard to replace next year.

JOHN WANTUCK—Outfielder.

With one of those arms that is well nigh perfect, Johnny had one of the best in the conference. A dirth of great outfield material kept this lad from playing regularly. He was a reserve of the first rank and did much to help the Indians win the Little 19 championship.

NORWOOD HOWARD—Catcher.

One of the hardest workers on the entire squad was "Skeet" Howard. When he wasn't in the game, "Skeet" was out on the coaching lines putting pep into the base-runners or in the bull pen warming up a probable pitcher. He never seemed to tire of baseball but was one of the true lovers of the game and one who could be depended upon when he was called for duty.

WILLIAM KNOOP—Second Baseman.

Bill came up from the freshman squad with little baseball experience but soon learned to handle the keystone sack in the most approved manner. He has a peculiar stance at the plate that is hard for an opposing pitcher to fathom and worked this to the best advantage in batting out a .364 average. Bill is back for another season and will prove valuable in rebuilding the team.

FRANCIS DUKE—Shortstop.

Our team did well in nominating Fran to lead this year's team. He not only scintillated in the field but was a dependable hitter, above the .300 mark. Fran promises to do his best in leading the team to another championship this year. At the first of the year he was shifted from second base to the shortstop position, where he proved more at home than ever.

LEO FICKER—Utility Infielder.

Ficker had the ability to step into almost anybody's shoes last year and fill them in an acceptable manner. With the graduation of a few of last year's squad, Leo will probably find a regular berth for himself on this year's varsity. When he finds his batting eye, which he had when he was here two years ago, he simply can't be left off. He has only one more year of competition.

CLYDE MCQUEEN—Catcher.

“Mac” had the misfortune to break his finger in the fifth game of the year and was lost for the rest of the season. He showed promise of becoming one of the best catchers in recent years and if he continues to improve as he did last year, he will be one of the most valuable members of the squad. His injury didn’t keep him out of competition, however, for he joined the track squad and won his letter there, too.

WILLIAM NOBLE—Outfielder.

Ever since “Zig” was able to walk he has been playing baseball, and when the team was picked last spring, he just couldn’t be left off. He was the fourth best batter on the squad and a regular hawk at chasing the ball. He handled twenty-five chances afield and made only one miscue. Some record, we’d say! He will be back for two more years with the Techsters, and we predict that he’ll go farther later on.

WILLIAM MASON—Third Baseman.

When Robbie was searching about for a man to fill Meeske's shoes at the hot corner, he choose "Wild Bill" Mason, and his choice proved to be a wise one. Bill had an accurate peg across the diamond and was an accurate fielder as well. This was his first year in baseball, and another year of experience should make him a star of the first magnitude.

HAROLD FURREY—Pitcher.

Furrey came to the varsity with a record of several one-hit victories on the mound from the freshman squad and soon found a place for himself to take his regular turn. This boy can bat, too, and was often used to pinch hit. He won a brace of games for the Techmen last year while losing none. Besides this he was the best relief pitcher on the squad. Harold has two more years of varsity competition.

Resume of 1928 Season

ALTHOUGH Bradley failed to win the championship honors in the Annual Little 19 Track and Field meet, which was held at Monmouth College last May, the Tech men did annex the runner-up trophy, losing the championship title, which they won the year before, to Knox College.

Coach Hewitt had very little material left from his title winning team of the year previous, but he managed to place his men in the events so that they won enough points to annex second place honors. Mr. Hewitt has given to Bradley three track and field championships and two runner-up trophies in the past five years.

Cross Country Lettermen

The first Little 19 championship of the season was won by Coach Hewitt's peerless cross country men, who annexed four dual meets in as many Saturdays and then won the First Annual Little 19 meet.

The harriers, by winning every meet charted, continued to enlarge on their list of consecutive victories, until the list of scalps now numbers eighteen. This is certainly a record that will stand for the rest of the conference teams to shoot at—not being defeated for five years. Everyone hopes and expects that more scalps will be added to the list next fall.

The Little 19 meet is history and of course Bradley won! The Red and White runners scored only thirty points, or just about a third the number that Illinois College scored to annex second place.

FOR consistent practice and excellence in performance three freshmen were awarded numerals, although no meets were scheduled for the first year men. Several times the frosh ran along with the Varsity and showed unexpected strength. If Bradley's long list of consecutive victories in cross country is to continue unbroken then the numeral winners of this year will have to carry on for the Red and White as four men of this year's championship team are lost by graduation.

CHAMPIONSHIP trophies were well divided among the various Greek lettered organizations, although Beta Sigma Mu copped the trophy that yearly is awarded to the fraternity who makes the best showing in the various sports.

Alpha Pi won the inter-fraternity track trophy by virtue of almost half-hundred points. Theta Kappa Nu clinched second place in this meet by winning the relay from Sigma Phi who finished third. Sigma Phi gained revenge and another championship in the Balfour league track meet, with Beta Sigma Mu finishing second and Alpha Pi third.

The Beta boys won both the kitty ball and baseball leagues to further their list of championships. Alpha Pi finished second in the kitty ball league with Theta Kappa Nu, third.

This year's soccer league finished, finally, much disputed and in a three-way tie. Sigma Phi, Beta Mu, and Beta Phi Theta were all on a par at the end of the season, with the trophy finally resting on the mantle of Beta Phi Theta, by virtue of a draw. This league was for both the Balfour and Inter-fraternity championships.

Theta Kappa Nu featured the hardwood season and won both the Balfour and Inter-fraternity leagues with one of the best quintets ever to perform in the Greek lettered league. Sigma Phi won second place in both leagues, with Beta Sigma Mu third twice, followed by Alpha Pi.

The intra-mural basketball league was won by the Indians, featuring the play of Captain Gregg, Metzger, Max Allen, Beckstrom, Harry Landis, and Esterdahl. The Reporters finished second, the Sophomores reigning as inter-class champions, by virtue of a crushing victory over the "lowly" freshman.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

MISS NADINE CRAGG

Director

Women's Athletics

THE year 1928-29 has marked a period of expansion in the women's athletic department. The most outstanding addition is the inter-sorority league competition in soccer, basketball and baseball. The women's Red Cross Life Saving Corps has continued in its growth, and the Sea Urchins, the honorary swimming team, was formed.

Under the direction of Miss Cragg, the fall sports developed to a high point of perfection. Soccer, hockey, and swimming occupied the major portion of Bradley's fair athletes' time. The Delta Kappas won the inter-sorority soccer and basketball by a small margin. Jim Flanagan of Balfour Jewelry Company presented the cups. The freshmen won the inter-class hockey and basketball. The All-Star teams furnished a great deal of excitement at the annual gym exhibition.

During the winter, clogging, interpretive dancing, calisthenics, volley ball, and basketball kept the girls in trim. As a culmination of the winter sports, the women's athletic exhibition was held in the Bradley gym., March 20. The girls showed a great deal of talent and careful direction, and the Yale-Princeton mascots created a humorous element.

Archery, a new addition, baseball, golf, and tennis made up the spring curriculum. More interest was shown in archery than in any of the other sports. The last of May was the time selected for the swimming carnival sponsored by the Sea Urchins.

Three years of Miss Cragg's able supervision has developed the women's athletic department into one of the most active on the campus. She received her A. B. degree from Western Reserve University in 1920 and her A. M. from Oberlin in 1924. She came to Bradley in the fall of 1926. Miss Cragg has had varied professional experience such as teaching in Shaker Heights school in Cleveland, Ohio; playground direction in Cleveland; director of girls' athletics in Cleveland; and director of a Girl Scout camp in Burton, Ohio.

A National Menace

IT has been estimated that 88,660,325 plates of chicken salad, 1,676,229 ripe olives, and 16,526,302 chocolate parfaits have been consumed at bridge parties by the wives and mothers and the future wives and mothers of the United States since 1893. This estimate of the total amount of refreshments served at women's bridge parties cannot be compared with the statistics as to the "ham on ryes" consumed at men's poker parties because no statistics for the latter are available. At any rate the above figures prove that entertaining at bridge parties, playing bridge, listening to bridge lessons over the radio, thinking about wonderful bridge hands, and especially playing two-handed bridge constitute a great economic waste. Add to economic loss the number of useful citizens who have been committed to insane asylums, because they could not keep up with the radio bridge player as he announced the plays. The time is indeed ripe for some open minded statement about this national menace.

Heretofore few people have dared to take a firm stand on the menaces of bridge playing and its kindred evils. Countless numbers of men and women have played bridge against their better judgment, the men because their wives made them and the women because it was the only way to escape the boredom of connubial bliss. There is but one martyr to the anti-bridge playing cause, and he is Anthony Goop, the prominent moustache cup salesman of Altoona, Pennsylvania. Mr. Goop did not like to play bridge, and in the absence of his wife he had the boldness to mention that fact to his iceman. The federal agents whose duty it is to enforce the national bridge Act conducted a thorough examination with the result that Anthony Goop was brought to trial for treason. During the trial Mr. Goop's lawyer had alienists plead insanity with the result that Goop was placed in a padded cell. Since the case of Anthony Goop, no one has dared to blaspheme the noble art of bridge.

Evidence will now be submitted to prove that this craze for playing bridge is the work of propagandists. The Bicycle Playing Card Company is hiring the famous team of North, South, East and West to broadcast bridge lessons over the radio in the hope of advertising bridge, and thus selling more decks of cards. All the prominent manufacturers of embroidery thread with which card table covers are embroidered are backing the card manufacturers in their insidious work. Every second rate manufacturer of book ends, doilies, embroidered door knob covers, candle sticks, and hat pin holders is vitally interested in the progress of bridge playing since his goods are purchased to be used as prizes at card parties. But more insidious than all this is the underhand work of the pencil manufacturers. Knowing full well that irate bridge players break pencils over the heads of their partners who trump their aces, the pencil manufacturers are gleeful over the national sweep of bridge. Thus we see that bridge has become a national menace. The harm lies in the federalizing of bridge. As long as the states had control of the game, propaganda was unheard of. But now, like bootlegging and bigamy, bridge has become a national pastime.

It remains for some broad minded person to point out the fact that the hand holding a no trump suit must not rock the cradles of America, that the feet that are parked under a bridge table will never win a long distance walking championship, and the brain that knows every card that has been played will never win a prize in a "Presidents of the United States Puzzle Contest."

TADPOLE SONG

I'm a feeble-minded tadpole
And I'll never be a frog;
For Dad got careless courting
In the middle of a bog.

I have too much thyroid
And not enough of frog;
For Dad was careless courting
In the middle of a bog.

I have arms and legs like Daddy's,
But I'll never lose my tail;
I have Mama's I. Q., mental set,
In the tadpole school I'll fail.

So salute the moron tadpole,
Who'll never be a frog;
His Dad was careless courting
In the middle of a bog.

A WORTHY CAUSE

In a certain town a committee was soliciting funds for a Fourth of July celebration, and the workmen in a factory were contributing twenty-five cents each to the fund. But one old Irishman refused to give anything. Some one remarked, "Why, Pat, wouldn't you give twenty-five cents for the glory of the only country that ever whipped England?"

"Put me doon for a dollar!" cried Pat. "Put me doon for a dollar!"

WHY THE NATIONAL ANTHEM

The organist was not lacking in patriotism, yet he rebelled when requested to play "The Star-Spangled Banner" at a wedding.

"It is not appropriate," he said.

"Ain't it," said the bride's father. "For this wedding it is the most appropriate thing you can play. Cut out all the rest of the program if you like, but stick to that. I had the hardest kind of a fight to keep Belle's mother from marrying her off to a foreigner. Between Belle and me we won out for an American, and if this isn't the time for the Star-Spangled Banner, I'd like to know what is."

WHAT, NO STARCH!

"If you don't want to fizzle out this spring, you'll have to avoid candy, cake, pie, butter, ice cream, potatoes, and women. Keep away from starchy things, especially."

"No starch?" asked Dave.

"No!"

"But I look like heck in SOFT collars!"

"The Old Spirit Will Always Live"

This store was founded on sincerity and service.

Because the store was founded without money, every ounce of effort had to tell.

Imagine a small room, on Adams Street, in '79. The fixtures were plain. The counters and shelves were almost bare.

From the opening day, on October 12th, for the following two years, the total daily sales were usually much less than one hundred dollars.

It was terribly hard work to tempt customers through the doorway. Only on Saturday (open 'til 11 P. M.), would the sales touch $100. And also during the ten days before Christmas.

People laughed at this little shop, run by two boys.

So stern was the desire to succeed, so intense was the hope that the business might grow, that everyone toiled as hard as he had ever worked before.

It is because those early struggles are remembered, and appreciated, that we today continue the effort of '79, and insist that "The old spirit will always live."

It would be gross ingratitude if we, who have become heir to all that the founders toiled so hard to erect, should let our work fall to the average of the usual store.

This year we celebrate the 50th Anniversary of that humble beginning. Fifty years of faithful service. Let us pause, reflect at the wonderful heritage, the unspotted name and the exceptional reputation for constant progress, that is associated with the sterling name of Block & Kuhl Co.

Help This Farmer Make More Money!

"I never fully appreciated what a handicap a farm without good fences is until I read the opinions of 17,000 farmers, while helping judge the 'Better Fence Contest' put on by the Keystone Steel & Wire Company at Peoria," says Otto B. Seeger, farmer, poultry raiser, and business man.

"I was amazed at the stories many of these farmers told. As I read over what they said, I got a mind picture of the countless hours, days and weeks wasted, the gray hairs accumulated, the family and neighborhood quarrels started, the lives lost, the many thousands of head of hogs, cattle and other stock strayed away or maimed; thousands of farms barely producing a living, all because of poor fences or no fence at all.

"But many others told of the pleasure and profit they get from good fences, and I never knew how much extra money is being made by successful farmers who have their entire farms enclosed and cross fenced, 'till I read their actual experiences."

Since the contest mentioned by Mr. Seeger, we have received more than a thousand fencing experiences, so we have just about come to the conclusion that fencing is one of the most important items on the modern farm. As a rule, a combination stock and crop program brings in the best returns. Rotating the stock along with the crops is another money making plan followed by many farmers. This increases soil fertility, too.

From among these 18,000 experiences we have selected quite a number of articles by successful farmers, showing how they have made more money with the use of good fences. These have been assembled in three booklets which prove interesting and helpful to dealers as well as landowners. Each farmer tells his own story in an interesting, convincing way.

A set of these three booklets will be mailed to any one interested in the earning power of fence on the farm.

OUR SHORT STORY

Ambrose loved a Very Modern Girl. She was his fiancée. One day he got a good idea and sent her a little present. The Very Modern Girl thought this gift a very charming little ornament, but knew not what it was. "What is it, Ambrose?" she asked, "it's made of gold, but it's not a brooch, or a ring, or a bracelet. I've never seen anything like it." "That's a thimble," said Ambrose.

NOTHING ON HIM

"You have a fine signature, Mr. So-and-So," said a salesman to a buyer who had written his name with many flourishes.

"Yes," answered the buyer, proudly, "I should have. One of my forefathers signed the Declaration of Independence."

"So?" said the salesman. "Vell, you ain'd got nottings on me. One of my forefathers signed the Ten Commandments."

AMONG MY CHIFFONIERS

I

There's nothing left for me
Save piles of debris,
An underthing or three,
Among my chiffoniers.

II

Some letters tied with blue,
A note long overdue,
A powder compact, too,
Among my chiffoniers.

III

On my bureau drawer
Dance programs by the score,
And over them I pore
To give me consolation.

IV

A bromo seltzer pill,
I only hope I will
Dig out a dollar bill,
Among my chiffoniers.

UNLUCKY THIRTEEN

"So you cling to that childish superstition about thirteen being unlucky," said the traveler.

"Yes," answered the other. "Can't get away from it."

"But see how completely it is disproved. This glorious country started with thirteen colonies."

"Very true. But I am an Englishman."

CULINARY ATHLETICS

R. M. sends us the story of a young bride who asked her husband to copy off a radio recipe she wanted. He did his best but got two stations at once, one of which was broadcasting the morning exercises and the other the recipe. This is what he took down:

"Hands on hips, place one cup of flour on the shoulders, raise knees and depress toes and mix thoroughly in one-half cup of milk. Repeat six times. Inhale quickly one-half teaspoon of baking powder, lower the legs, and mash two hard-boiled eggs in a sieve, exhale, breath naturally and sift into a bowl.

"Attention! Lie flat on the floor and roll the white of an egg backward and forward until it comes to a boil. In ten minutes remove from the fire and rub smartly with a rough towel. Breathe naturally, dress in warm flannels and serve with fish soup."

* * * * *

BETTER WEAR IT

Padre: "You'll ruin your stomach, my good man, drinking that stuff."

Old Soak: "'Sall right, 'sall right. It won't show, with my coat on."

* * * * *

"Is your kitchen small?"

"Is it? Why, it's so small we have to use condensed milk."

PATRIOTIC COLORS

"I like this pattern well enough," said the customer, looking at some ribbons: "but I'm afraid the colors will run."

"Run, madam!" indignantly answered the salesman. "Red, white and blue? They never run!"

Whereupon the woman bought forty-three yards.

FOR THE ASKING

Max and Edith were playing with a new flag. "Papa says there'll be a new star in the flag pretty soon," gravely said Max.

"Where'll they get it?" asked Max's little cousin.

"Out of the sky," replied Max. "I s'pose the United States can have 'em any time she wants 'em."
